Johnson Not Consulted On Viet Gas Use

McNamara Defends Utilization Of Riot Control Chemicals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Tuesday that President Johnson was not consulted in advance on use of nausea gas in South Viet Nam any more than he would be asked to approve use of small arms ammunition.

Press Secretary George E. Reedy, pressed for White House reaction to the use of gas disclosed Monday, stood essentially on Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's earlier explanation.

The defense chief had said in a statement that the United States had furnished the non-lethal gas to South Vietnamese troops for use against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas starting in mid-1962.

He called them commercially available "riot control agents" that were the same as disabling gases. They have been used to quell disturbances in a variety of places, he said, including Panama, Berlin, Cyprus and Cambridge, Md.

"Standard Equipment"

At a White House news briefing, Reedy said of the gas and its use:

"This is a rather standard riot control agent and it has been standard equipment for some time... for many years, use of this type of riot control agents has been delegated to area commanders."

Asked whether Johnson had been consulted in advance or had approved the use of the gas in Viet Nam, Reedy said it was not the kind of decision to be made at the presidential level.

Pressed as to whether the President had been consulted at all, Reedy said, "no," in the same sense that Johnson would not be consulted about the use of 38-caliber ammunition or many other military items.

Precedents Cited

"As Secretary McNamara pointed out, this is standard equipment used throughout the world for many years," Reedy said. He referred other questions to McNamara, who had cited precedents for use of the gas.

The British used them against the Egyptians in Cyprus, he said. West Berlin border guards used them in disturbances at the Berlin Wall, and police employed them in race riots at Rochester, N.Y.

The National Guard under state control also used similar gases during racial disturbances at Cambridge, Md., and both United States troops and the Panamanian National Guard used them to control Canal Zone rioting early last year, McNamara said.

New York Facing Cab Strike Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—A taxi cab strike loomed for the nation's largest city Wednesday. Fleet owners feared that roving goon squads, some imported from out of town, might use terrorist tactics to keep maverick drivers off the streets.

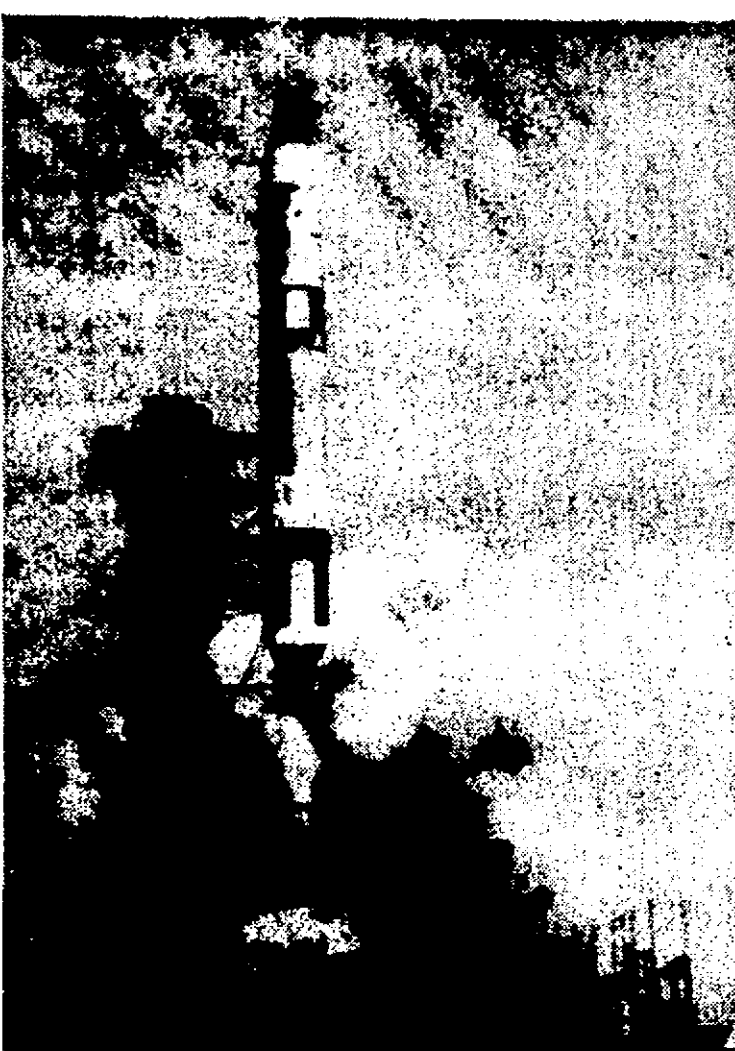

Leaders of five owner-driver cab associations went to City Hall to demand police protection for their drivers. Police warned that "hugs or bullies or the use of strong-arm methods" will not be tolerated.

"We're here to get protection for our drivers," Alfred J. Marks, director of the League of Mutual Taxi Owners, said at City Hall.

Union strategists called for a work stoppage throughout the day. A huge rally for the city's 25,000 cab drivers is set for Wednesday afternoon at Madison Square Garden to explain plans for the organization of a taxi drivers' union.

300 Marchers Plod 11 Miles Through Rain

LOWNESBORO, Ala. (AP) — Rain-soaked civil rights marchers, bound for the Alabama capital, huddled Tuesday night under tents on a muddy knoll after plodding 11 miles through heavy showers.

The 300 soggy but spirited marchers camped within 20 miles of their destination — the white-domed Capitol in Montgomery. The right-to-vote trek began Sunday in Selma.

National Guardsmen and Army troops activated by presidential order ringed the camp of the marchers for the third night.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of the Alabama civil rights drive, left the march here to Cleveland, Ohio, to keep a speaking engagement, but planned to return Wednesday.

March leaders said hundreds more would join the demonstration Wednesday on the four-lane stretch which starts one-quarter mile east of the camp.

King has called for thousands to march in Montgomery Thursday on the final leg of the pilgrimage.

Tents were pitched Tuesday night on a rise overlooking flooded pastures near this town in Alabama's so-called "Black Belt." From here, the marchers plan to walk 16 miles — moving inside the Montgomery city limits to camp at a Catholic school.

A nun wore a green slicker over her habit. A 64 priest, holding an umbrella, walked with his trousers legs rolled up. A Negro youth walked barefoot in the rain, so did many other marchers.

House Unit Adopts Medical Care Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A far-reaching health care plan for the aged, part of a $6 billion social legislation package, was approved Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

President Johnson promptly acclaimed the legislation—which goes beyond his recommendations—and Democratic leaders pushed plans to bring it to a House vote next week if possible. The following week is more likely.

If the plan is enacted, these benefits will be available to those 65 and older, beginning July 1, 1966:

For everyone, regardless of employment or income, a basic hospitalization right of 60 days for each spell of illness, with 20 additional days in a nursing home — or, if the hospital benefit is not exhausted, additional time in the nursing home. The patient would pay the first $40 of the cost.

For those who choose it, a supplemental plan covering doctors' services in and out of the hospital, drugs in the hospital or nursing home only, X-rays, laboratory tests, ambulance service, artificial limbs and the like.

For those supplementary benefits, the patient would pay the first $50 of his bill. The plan would cover 80 per cent of the remainder. Those who enroll in the plan would pay a premium of $3 a month, which they could have deducted, if they wished, from Social Security old-age payments.

The existing system under the Kerr-Mills Act of state-federal health services to the indigent and low-income aged would be drastically revised, with increased federal funds and standard, liberalized eligibility requirements and increased coverage — taking in dependent children, the blind and disabled as well as the aged.

The old-age payments under Social Security would be increased 7 per cent, retroactive to January 1965. There would be a minimum monthly increase of $4 — more than 7 per cent for those at the bottom of the scale — so that everyone could, if he wished, join the new health plan without reducing his present Social Security income.

Wilson advised members of Parliament that Foreign Secretary Michel Stewart, Washington, would raise with President Johnson the question of the use of gas and napalm fire bombs against the Communists.

Wilson said Britain wants an explanation of a remark by Taylor that was represented here as a declaration the United States intends to wage war without limit in Viet Nam.

Questioned closely about the remark, headlined in most London newspapers, Wilson replied with some heat that he was "concerned to find out what the facts are."

Ranger To Send Astronauts' Wives Back "Live" TV Moon Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Ranger 9 spacecraft will be used Wednesday to send pictures of the moon's surface "live" to living room television sets for the first time, it was announced Tuesday.

If all goes well, the three television networks will pick up the pictures of the moon just before Ranger 9 crashes on its surface and relay them to viewers about 9 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) of the California Institute of Technology were optimistic about the success of the historic television experiment since all factors indicated Ranger 9 would be another U.S. success in space.

Early Tuesday morning a minute, delicate midcourse maneuver was carried out to put the spacecraft right on target for impact on the moon's Aphronus crater.

Pictures may give more clues as to the nature of the moon's terrain and help scientists decide where the best spot would be for a landing of astronauts.

The home television pictures will be still photographs but will appear on screens in quick succession like old "flicker" movies, a JPL spokesman said.

This phase of the mission will not interfere with the taking of thousands of feet of motion picture films on other cameras just before Ranger 9 smashes into the lunar surface.

From all indications, scientists said, Ranger 9 appeared to be the most successful in the series which has returned to earth numerous photographs of the moon's surface.

This is the last in the Ranger series but several Surveyor robot probes will be staged before a manned landing is attempted by the end of the decade.

Grissom, Young Head For Water Fountain

ABOARD THE USS INTREPID (AP) — Just about the first thing astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young thought of after they were plucked from the sea was water.

After they had shaken hands with Rear Adm. Donald M. White and other officers and space officials, they were hurried to the sick bay for medical examinations.

They stopped outside the hospital area for long drinks of cold water from a fountain.

The pair showed no signs of fatigue, stepping briskly across the flight deck of the carrier and down below to the medical area.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Betty Grissom and Barbara Young, happy and smiling, had a "great day" Tuesday but disagreed over whether they want to go through anxious moments of another space flight real soon.

The wives of Air Force Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Navy Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young chatted briefly with newsmen after a helicopter had plucked their husbands from the Atlantic for a successful conclusion of their historic Gemini space flight.

"I feel pretty good," said the brown-haired Mrs. Grissom, who had waited during Grissom's short suborbital flight in 1961.

"I think it has been a great day," she said. "There really were no very anxious moments but I hope Gus doesn't make another flight any way soon."

Mrs. Young seemed surprised when asked if she would like for Young to make another flight.

"Heavens, yes," she replied. "I'd like to take part again and know John is ready to start training for another flight right now."

Mrs. Grissom said she was not as anxious on liftoff as she was in 1961, "but at the end I was just waiting for the floatation ring to be laced around the spacecraft."

Her oldest of two sons, Scott, 14, said, "I was just hoping it was the spacecraft — was floating."

Mrs. Young said the tension lasted only a short period of time at liftoff and at the end of the mission.

"We had a party and waited rather quietly but I'm surprised you didn't hear us at times," she said.

Her party resulted from an open invitation to friends and neighbors to visit with her during the flight. Wives of eight other astronauts were in the home at one time during the early stages of the third orbit.

The astronauts have homes in Houston, site of the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Duke Visits Palace

LONDON (UPI)—The Duke of Windsor paid one of his rare visits to Buckingham Palace at the invitation of his niece, Queen Elizabeth II. He strolled through the gardens for half an hour.

Cooper at one point tried to elicit some comment on the scenery from Grissom, the way some Soviet cosmonauts held forth on how lovely and green Cuba looked from outer space.

"Pretty spectacular up there, huh?" Cooper coaxed.

The reply was brief and garbled.

Cooper kissed the whole thing off with a "Too many clouds, huh?" and never did get an answer to that question.

Pilots Report 3-Orbit Ride "Wonderful"

Two Astronauts Maneuver Ship In "Textbook" Flight

By ARTHUR EDSON

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young made space flight history Tuesday by skillfully maneuvering their ship during its three orbits of the earth. At the end, both said they were feeling fine and were ready to go again.

President Johnson telephoned his congratulations after the astronauts landed and Grissom told the President: "It was a thrilling and wonderful flight."

Young took the telephone and said: "It was a wonderful ride. It didn't last long enough."

After 4 hours, 54 minutes, and 81,000 miles, the astronauts hit the general target area in the Atlantic Ocean, but missed the bull's eye by 50 to 60 nautical miles. Space officials said they weren't sure why the shot fell short of its mark, but for all practical purposes it didn't seem to matter.

Grissom and Young were quickly picked up by helicopter after their capsule landed and taken to the aircraft carrier Intrepid.

The space craft also was recovered and taken aboard the Intrepid.

Tests And Questions

Grissom told a space official, "I'll be ready to take GT-4" the next space flight scheduled for this summer.

After talking with the President, the astronauts settled down to a long series of tests and questionings that will last through Wednesday.

Except for a brief flurry at splashdown, the flight was surprisingly undramatic, but so successful that officials here were calling it a textbook flight.

Grissom and Young calmly put their Gemini 3 ship — nicknamed the Molly Brown — through intricate outer space paces.

By firing thrust rockets, they nudged it down, from side to side and turned it around as they whirled along faster than 17,000 miles an hour.

Grissom and Young did it so smoothly and unemotionally that it was hard to believe this was any more dangerous or difficult than driving a car down crowded Highway AIA here in Cape Kennedy.

Recovery Goes Smoothly

Everything went smoothly, too, after the spacecraft had parachuted into the Atlantic at 2:18 p.m. EST. It was quickly spotted, frogmen swam over to apply a collar that would make certain the capsule continued to float, and Grissom and Young were airlifted by helicopter from the craft to the Intrepid.

Had they been exactly on target, the astronauts would have remained in the spacecraft until it was hoisted aboard the carrier. But the ship was too far away for this procedure.

President Johnson quickly offered his congratulations.

"We're very proud of you and very grateful for your safe return," the President said in a telephone call to the astronauts from the White House.

The President told the astronauts he had followed "every moment of your flight," and he also paid tribute to the "heroes

South Viet Bombers Blast Radar Station

American Jets Run Interference

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — With U.S. jets running interference, eight Vietnamese fighter-bombers blasted another station of North Viet Nam's radar warning network today and shot up convoys on a 50-mile stretch of coastal highway.

The radar station, the third to be singled out for destruction this month, was at Ban Binh, 10 miles north of the border. A Vietnamese military spokesman said Communist ground fire was heavy, but the station was "knocked down and set aflame."

The propeller-driven Skyraiders then cruised along Route No. 1, looking for targets of opportunity between the border and the port of Dong Hoi. The Vietnamese spokesman said "many enemy military convoys" were attacked. He reported they shot back with heavy caliber machine guns.

A U.S. Air Force officer, Capt. John R. Walters of Phoenix, Ariz., piloted one of the Skyraiders in this 10th raid on

Backers Say Delay May Kill Equality Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The bill to make Maryland's public accommodations law conform with federal law ran into a delay Tuesday which some backers said might kill the measure.

The measure was tentatively approved by the delegates at the outset of their afternoon session but in an amended form which would have repealed local public accommodations ordinances and agencies.

Backers of the measure in its original form, as supported by Gov. Tawes, succeeded later in getting the House to reverse itself and strip the restrictive amendment from the bill.

But Del. Bernard J. Medairy Jr., D-Baltimore County, sponsor of that amendment, then offered another one and asked that further action be put off until Wednesday. His request was supported by four other members and the delay was granted under the rule intended to give delegates time to study new amendments.

Judiciary Committee Chairman Thomas Hunter Lowe, D-Talbot, had expressed concern that the attempt to strip the bill of Medairy's repealer amendment would result in a delay.

"I'm afraid the bill will be killed with or without the amendments," he said, reminding the House that the 70-day legislative session has only one week to go. The Senate still must act on the bill if it passes the House.

But those seeking to preserve the several local and county anti-discrimination commissions in Maryland pressed to reconsider the amended bill.

They won the key test on a 64-54 roll call.

As approved by the Judiciary Committee last week, the bill would extend Maryland's anti-discrimination law to recreation places like bowling alleys, movies and similar public places.

Pilots Report

Grissom, a taciturn man, set the flight tone at the outset. Air Force Major Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., the last U.S. astronaut to circle the globe, was the communicator with the space capsule. He was exultant as the big rocket, with a tremendous roar, pushed the astronauts into orbit.

"You're on your way, Molly Brown!" Cooper cried.

"Yeah, man," said Grissom.

The lack of excitement in the Gemini 3 seemed to worry Cooper more than any technical difficulties.

"Everything looks good down here," Cooper said.

"Roger," Grissom said.

As the spacecraft came back almost directly over the Cape, Cooper tried again.

"Pretty spectacular up there, huh?"

"It really is," Grissom said. "It really is."

But this was a business trip, not a sightseeing venture.

Grissom, 38, an Air Force major, and Young, 34, a Navy lieutenant commander, tended strictly to business. There was little to see. Mostly it was cloudy all over the world.

There were problems, of course. A valve leaked before takeoff. Young's blood pressure shot up at the launching but soon came down to normal. The stabilizer viewer was not working perfectly. Neither was a thruster. But these were nagging, little things, never enough for worry.

Everything else seemed to function exactly as the space doctors ordered.

Grissom and Young became the 18th and 19th persons to enter outer space. Of these, 10 men and one woman have been Russians.

Russia was first with a multi-manned flight when three Soviet cosmonauts went into outer space last Oct. 16. Five days ago, two more Russians were shot into outer space, and one of them scored a dramatic first by stepping out of his craft and floating freely on his own.

But outer space seems big enough for all to claim honors, for on Tuesday's flight the Americans showed how a spaceship can be maneuvered — and Grissom became the first man to rocket twice into space.

On July 21, 1961, Grissom took a 16-minute flight and, in one of the most frightening periods of all the space shots, had to swim for it when his space ship sank.

It was this misadventure that led to the nickname, Molly Brown. Officially christened Gemini 3, she was named after the Broadway musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," in the hope that she would float the astronauts until they could be picked up by the Intrepid.

Space officials take pride in the fact that, unlike the Soviets, their shots are announced well in advance — and the public is allowed to watch and hear each step of the way.

The shot had an all-star watching cast.

President Johnson looked on by television in Washington. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was here to give pep talks and congratulations in person.

Millions watched on television, including those most concerned with the safety of the crew. In Houston, in Orlando, Fla., in Mitchell, Ind., wives and other relatives watched and waited.

Here are some of the highlights of the trip:

First Orbit — By firing rockets, the spacecraft changed its orbit, gradually dropping down so it began going around the world in an almost perfect circle, from 97 to 105 miles high. Originally the orbit had ranged from 100 to 142 miles above the earth.

Second Orbit — Again by firing rockets, Grissom and Young managed to push the Molly Brown first to one side and then to another. This is a necessity if space ships are to make contact high above the earth.

Third Orbit — Rockets again, this time slowing the ship down for re-entry into the atmosphere. To come down at the right spot in the Atlantic, the braking began over Hawaii.

King Declares Rights Battle Far From Won

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King said Tuesday "people all over the nation are finally realizing the federal government is serious about enforcing the civil rights of Negroes."

But the fight for equality in voting and jobs, even though bolstered by laws, is still a long way from over, the noted integration leader told a brief news conference.

Dr. King met with newsmen before being honored at a civic dinner attended by about 2,500 persons.

Dr. King was whisked downtown from the airport by a police escort after a hectic flight from Montgomery, Ala. Bad weather made it impossible for his chartered plane to land in Cleveland and he went on to Pittsburgh, flying back to the Ohio city in late afternoon.

The speaker made no mention at the news conference of Cleveland's recent racial problems and was not asked any questions about the matter. One of Cleveland's largest schools closed for a day last week when whites and Negroes got into fist fights. Negroes paraded Monday demanding better jobs in the construction of a federal building.

Tickertape Parade Set For Astronauts

NEW YORK (AP) — New York will stage its traditional hero's welcome — a tickertape parade — for astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young next Monday.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Tuesday America's first two-man space team also will be the city's guests at a Waldorf Astoria Hotel reception following the noontime parade.

State Schools In Compliance

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. James A. Senebaugh, state school superintendent, said Tuesday he has told the federal government Maryland is complying with the school integration provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

Senebaugh said the state completed its report to the U.S. Department of Education Monday.

Maryland cannot qualify for federal school aid until full compliance has been assured. The state is due $17 million in federal funds under the aid-to-education bill.

Senebaugh said his department sent a report March 3 telling the federal government no school district was denying Negroes the right to attend integrated classes.

The superintendent said, however, he neglected to send a memo required, and the forms were returned. The completed batch was mailed Monday.

Senebaugh said he told the federal government at least one Negro was attending every school in the state, except in Garrett County where there are no Negro school children.

Veneys Face Extradition Proceedings

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government surrendered custody Tuesday of two brothers, who are fighting extradition in the slaying of a Baltimore policeman.

The pair, identified by the FBI as Samuel Veneys, 26, and Earl Veneys, 32, were ordered to face extradition proceedings in Brooklyn Criminal Court. These are expected to take several days.

Federal charges of flight across state lines to avoid prosecution were dismissed by U.S. Commissioner Max Schiffman in order that the case might be heard in the state court.

Schiffman made no ruling on the identity of the men, who were listed among the FBI's "10 most wanted." The one identified as Samuel Veneys claims to be David Brown while his brother insists he is Kenneth Brown. The FBI says fingerprints identified them as the Veneys brothers.

They were arrested by G-men March 11 while at work in a Long Island zipper factory, after Earl was recognized while walking down a street.

Samuel Veneys is accused of fatally shooting Baltimore Police Sgt. Jack Cooper, after a $2,400 Christmas Eve liquor store holdup in the Maryland City. Earl Veneys is wanted in connection with the wounding of Police Lt. Joseph Maskell during the holdup.

Use Of Gas Questioned By British Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, mildly criticizing use of nonlethal gas in Viet Nam, suggested Tuesday that the United States display "a decent respect for the opinion of mankind," Stewart said in choosing the weapons it uses.

On the second and last day of his visit here Stewart got instructions from British Prime Minister Harold Wilson to convey to President Johnson the "very grave concern which this episode aroused" in Britain.

On the fighting in general, Stewart told a news conference at U.N. headquarters in New York Tuesday night he had been assured the United States seeks no wider war in Viet Nam.

"I am satisfied that the statement which President Johnson made some little while ago in which he said he sought no wider war still represents American policy," Stewart said.

In London, Wilson told the House of Commons earlier in the day he wants an explanation of U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor's reported statement in Saigon about the possibility of "war without limit" in Viet Nam. Taylor's statement provoked uneasiness in Parliament.

Bob Kennedy Presumed To Be Scaling Mountain

WHITEHORSE, Yukon Territory (AP) — The ascent of 13,500-foot Mt. Kennedy, a personal mission for Robert F. Kennedy in memory of his brother, was believed to have started Tuesday.

Five of the eight climbers, including Kennedy, spent the night at the 7,500-foot base camp. The others, members of an advance party which has marked a trail up to the 13,200 feet with willow sticks, stayed at the second camp at the 11,500-foot level.

"I'll be very, very surprised if they are not all in the high camp tonight," Washburn said.

From there, he said, the final assault could be made in about five hours if the weather and the men's condition remained good. This would make it possible for Kennedy to get down and fly back to Whitehorse Thursday.

Washburn said the senator is carrying a memento to his slain brother to place at the summit.

"He has a flag rolled up on a stick and nobody's seen it," Washburn said. "I gather it's not going to be unfurled until he gets to the top."

There was no contact here with the climbing party. The radio at the base camp blew a fuse two days ago. Low clouds and snow squalls in this area kept planes from flying to the mountain.

But Dr. Bradford Washburn, scientific leader of the expedition, said there was nothing in the weather reports to indicate climbing plans would have to be changed.

It will be a first both for Kennedy and the mountain. He has never climbed one and this one has never been climbed.

Mt. Kennedy, 140 miles north of here within three miles of the Alaska border, was named by the Canadian government for the late President, John F. Kennedy.

Rhodesian Racial Equality Butler Goal

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian opposition leader David Butler said Tuesday he wants to end racial discrimination in Rhodesia.

Making his first major political speech since he took over the Rhodesia party presidency from Sir Edgar Whitehead last month, Butler told a meeting: "Rhodesia and South Africa are the only nations in the world which practice the policy of racial discrimination and it is time this form of discrimination was removed."

That's putting it mildly. It seems like only yesterday we had all but given up hope of ever developing a Soft Whiskey either. It's 86 proof. And does anything any 86 proof does. It just does it softer.

Calvert Extra goes down easy. It sort of swallows softly but carries a big stick. While we're at it, one way we soften Soft Whiskey is by doing some distilling in small batches as opposed to large. The second and third way we'll leave unmen-oping a Soft Whiskey. We scored zero in over 22,000 experiments. Granted, when we finally hit it we knew we had a good thing. (Distillers have dreamt of a Soft Whiskey for years.)

But if anyone had told us, 2 years ago, that we'd be selling in such fantastic volume, we'd have laughed.

Who could have believed people would actually bring our ads into their liquor stores to make certain they got "this Soft Whiskey stuff."

Don't you underestimate the power tioned. The other distillers will have to find a Soft Whiskey without our help. If they find it, more power to them.

Calvert Extra

His '65 Ford rides quieter... than his Rolls-Royce

Ever since tests proved a '65 Ford LTD could ride quieter than a Rolls-Royce, some people are all at sea. They just can't believe it. Solution... a no-obligation test drive at your nearest Ford Dealer's. Take one. You won't find Ford a new rival of the fabulous Rolls-Royce. But you will find it has outstanding quality... because quiet means quality. Come see (and hear) for yourself...

On Monday, March 22, we debated the world because foreign visitors who come here often gain their primary impression of America from the city of Washington. While the legislative branch of the federal government is in session, the District of Columbia is a laboratory for the study of the city of Washington.

For the past several years the entire nation has concentrated a very unhappy stare on the spectacle of the growth of crime in America. I have studied this problem as a member of the District of Columbia Committee and have seen a certain nationwide pattern in which the numbers of serious crimes committed in the nation's metropolitan areas of America. In other words, crime seems to be a disease that affects all of our great metropolitan cities. This is not a happy situation.

During the past year there has been a change in these statistics which gives me even greater concern. The crime statistics for the city of Washington have risen sharply. While Washington is once in line with other metropolitan cities in its unhappy rate of crime, today we find that Washington has an even worse score than most cities of comparable size.

This is not just a problem for the District of Columbia, because this is the Nation's Capital. It is the place to which all Americans come when they want to see their government in action. What happens in Washington has a very real effect on citizens throughout the country and indeed throughout the world.

Cresap Chapter DAR Honored At Conference

Honoring Cresap Chapter, Mrs. Norman W. Taylor, regent of the local chapter, was asked to respond to the welcome of Mrs. James E. Freney, Thomas Jefferson Chapter, at the sixtieth state conference of the Maryland State Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. The conference was held at the Sheraton Belvedere, Baltimore, last week. Miss Marjorie E. Crist acted as platform page at the invitation of the committee on arrangements. Mrs. John A. Cuper, 2nd., was one of the five delegates chosen to arrange the procession at the opening meeting and again at the banquet. It consisted of pages in white carrying the American, Maryland and DAR flags, dignitaries, and regent, preceded by four pages.

Cresap received special commendation by the Maryland DAR librarian and the chairman of genealogical records for the four volumes of historical significance presented recently to the National Library, DAR, one of the major centers of genealogical research in the United States.

Participating in all the phases of the DAR work during 1964, a major project of Cresap Chapter was the compilation of the marriages, abstracting of wills and administrative accounts, fully indexed, consisting of 250 pages of early courthouse records, entitled "Allegany County, Maryland Records, 1787-1825." A bound volume was presented to the Library of NSDAR in Washington.

Copies were given by Cresap Chapter to the Maryland Historical Society Library, Baltimore; the Hall of Records, Annapolis; and a volume will be placed locally.

The conference which honored Mrs. Wilson King Barnes, state regent, had as its principal guests at the banquet, Governor and Mrs. Millard Tawes. Governor Tawes spoke of the interest and active support he received from the Maryland DAR in efforts to preserve historical landmarks, especially Colonial Annapolis.

Mrs. Niles E. Faust, New Hampshire, national president of the Children of the American Revolution, told of the work of maintaining certain aspects of the DAR schools for the American Indian children and schools in the Southern Appalachian areas, which are supported totally by the DAR. Cresap Chapter participated in sending among 140 packages to the schools, with clothing valued at $2,700.

Cresap Chapter also participated in the "Good Citizenship" contest. Beverly Smith, student at Allegany High School, was Allegany County winner; and Linda Oursler, Southern High, the Garrett County winner.

Chapter regents gave their reports. Mrs. Cuper, genealogical records and lineage research chairman and Mrs. John J. Hafer, conservation and national defense chairman, attended with Mrs. Taylor and Miss Crist, chaplain and librarian. Each will report on various aspects of the conference at the meeting of Cresap Chapter, to be held April 13 in conjunction with the chapter birthday party. It will be held at the home of Mrs. Hafer, Frostburg.

The Continental Congress of NSDAR will be held in Washington, April 19-23. The Maryland luncheon will be at the Mayflower Hotel on the 20th. Mrs. Taylor is the delegate from Cresap Chapter. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Cuper, alternate. Miss Crist, by request of Mrs. Barnes will be a color bearer for the Maryland regent at the congress.

Bryan Wagner Marks Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Wagoner entertained with a surprise party for their son, Bryan Lee Wagner, in celebration of his ninth birthday. It was held Monday evening at their home, 533 Columbia Avenue.

Happy Birthday banners were arranged around the rooms, which carried out the spring motif in the decorations of vari colored balls and green and yellow streamers.

Games were played and each guest received a prize. A birthday cake, decorated to represent a landing strip with a miniature jet plane centered the refreshment table.

Guests were Dennis Dawson, Terrance Smith, Edward Kight, Larry Will, Joseph Nichols, Samuel Clingan, Timothy Walbert, Timothy Young, Wendall Baker, William Koonitz, David Woods and Steven Woods.

Club Is Entertained

Entertainment by the Swingin' Aires featured the dinner meeting of the Centre Street Married Couples Club. Rev. Owen Osbourne offered the invocation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eyer and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Leasure were co-chairmen of arrangements, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grimes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Constable.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Helman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Linaburg, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Vandergrift, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Haus, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McGraw, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kuhns, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McAlouse, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Radcliffe, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eves, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Romaine, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cost, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hoelzer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Alderton, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Paulman, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Elmslie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smith, Mrs. Edward Ewald, Mr. and Mrs. Estes Brockman, Mrs. James A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cabbage, W. A. Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davis, Mrs. Owen Osbourne, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lehr.

Surprise Party Marks Birthday

Mrs. Leah O'Neal, Cumberland, was honored with a surprise birthday party at the home of her niece, Mrs. Earl King, Star Route, Everett, Pa., Saturday evening.

Games were played and an informal social held. Refreshments were served.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Imes, Mr. and Mrs. Regis Imes, Flintstone; Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Yokum, Mr. and Mrs. Alton James and sons, Edward and Randolph; Victor Imes, Judi Gilford, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. George Donahoe and son, Ronald, Beans Cove, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knisely and Cynthia, Bedford, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Imes, Manheim, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl King and children, Beverly, Steven, Beth and Rebecca, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Robinson and daughters, Debrah, Susan and Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Upton Imes and sons, Jeff and Joseph of Everett.

Rainbow Girls Meet Saturday

Plans to attend the Grand Assembly will be discussed at the meeting of the Cumberland Assembly, Order of Rainbow for Girls, Saturday at 2 o'clock. The assembly will be at the Sheraton Belvedere, Baltimore, April 24.

A "come as you are" breakfast will be held at 10 a.m. at the temple. Parents and friends are welcome. Those wishing to take part in the program are to call Sheila Day, PA 4-2285. Reservations are to be made with Sue Moreland, 729-1444; Ellen Jewell, RE 8-9522 or Paula Buchanan, 722-8271.

Allegany Class of 1950 will meet tonight in the school library to plan the reunion.

RECEIVE LIFE MEMBERSHIPS — On behalf of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Melvin Methodist Church, Rev. W. Louis Piel, pastor, presented special life memberships to three members at the 25th anniversary celebration of the society. The observance was

Club Studies Gilbert, Sullivan

Reports on Sir William Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan were given by Sue Ann Brakeall at the meeting of the Wiley Ford Music Club, held at the home of Mrs. Leon Schraum, counselor. She explained that the team known as Gilbert and Sullivan wrote 14 comic operas. Mrs. Schraum played three of the hit tunes, which the group sang. They were "We Sail the Ocean Blue," "Poor Little Buttercup" and "I Am the Captain of the Pinafore."

The meeting was conducted by Patricia Layton. Lou Ann Hedrick led the group in singing the junior hymn. Donald Layton reported on the federation news. The club is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

A recreation period followed and a game was played. Refreshments were served by Terry Layton and Lou Ann Hedrick. Other members present were Sue Ann Brakeall, Shirley Brakeall, and Joan Schaver. Guests were Shirley Miller, Robin England and Alma Shanzholtz.

Discuss State Luncheon

The annual state luncheon with legislators in Washington was discussed at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary 1428, NALC held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Michael Cunningham, Columbia Avenue. It will be in the old state capitol building, April 7.

Mrs. Georgia Martin conducted the meeting, which opened with the pledge of allegiance and the collect for women said in unison. She reminded the group that the per capita tax is due.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Edward Nield, 111 Grand Avenue, April 26. Concluding the business session, a social was held and refreshments served, with a 15th anniversary cake centering the table.

Others attending were Mrs. Thomas Isat, Mrs. Walter Alexander, Mrs. Francis Fannon, Mrs. James Kisamore, Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. Donald Nehring, Mrs. Ralph Lantz, Mrs. Clayton Gillum, Mrs. Nield, Mrs. Allan Deffinbaugh and Mrs. Milton Heffner.

Group Meets

The Ladies of Grace Baptist Church held a meeting and devotional at the home of Mrs. Anna Mae Breakall, Miltenberger Road. Devotionals were by Mrs. Patricia Breakall. Her topic was "Love." It was followed by prayer.

Games were played and refreshments served. The April 21 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jennie Abe, Rt. 1, Ridgeley.

Others present were Mrs. Louise Delonier, Miss Ruth Delonier, Mrs. Mary Miller, Mrs. Joan Cole, Mrs. Darlene Wagner, Mrs. Iva Abe and Miss Sheila Miller.

Concert Postponed

The concert that was to have been presented by the Allegany County Youth Wind Ensemble tomorrow, has been postponed. It will be held sometime in April, the date to be announced later.

The next scheduled rehearsal will be held April 3 at Fort Hill High School.

Social Chart

The Salvation Army Auxiliary will meet at noon tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Ben Jones, 947 Rose Hill Avenue. All members are urged to attend and bring a guest.

Maplelode Homemakers will mark the 31st anniversary of a covered dish luncheon at noon tomorrow at First EUB Church. Each is to bring a covered dish and place setting.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers,

Start Your Own Reading Group

Before entertainment could be obtained just by the click of a switch, folks had to provide their own amusements. Grace and charming ways were a natural by-product of many of the pastimes.

Reading aloud was a favorite. Not only did group perusal of the classics, current novels and poetry supply interesting subject matter for conversation; it also improved the reader's voice, enunciation and pronunciation, and it fostered an interest in the meaning of unfamiliar words. Since each in the group was usually asked to take a turn at reading, you can be sure that every young lady strove to acquire an enchanting, satin-voiced delivery as well as a facility for sight reading.

In some select circles this highly-rewarding form of entertainment is still a favorite. Many families have regular hours for reading aloud. It provides a common ground for thinking and for discussing novels, biographies, histories, commentaries, poetry or plays. The latter are a special delight when each person takes a role.

Whether you are a teenage or post-teen, why not collect a few like-minded friends for oral reading sessions? What more idyllic spring and summer pastime could you find? It will provide a means for keeping up with current books and reacquaintance with old favorites. It's a painless way for students to get through required reading lists.

If you are timid about reading for others, practice behind a closed door for a while. You'll soon want an audience. One chapter of any full-sized book at a clip is sufficient for any single voice to deliver. Pass the book along and give someone else a chance to perform. If your voice tires before your stint is up, stop for a second, take a few deep breaths and yawn. Your voice will relax immediately.

Remember the art of reading aloud lies mainly in clear enunciation, good pronunciation and interesting intonation. These virtues can be acquired by following the instructions given in "Your Most Attractive Voice." (For copy of this booklet write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.) Watch for another column on this subject to help you attain mastery over the printed word and lead you to improved ability in the field of conversation.

Proposed TV Program Rule Issued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission has formally issued a proposed rule to sharply restrict network control over evening-hour television programs.

The commission said the rule was designed to foster greater competition by giving independent program producers, and advertisers, a larger role in the selection of programs viewed by the American public.

Interested parties were given until July 21 to file comments on the proposed rule, before it is put into effect. The proposal has been under study since 1959.

In its formal notice, the commission said the rule was "intended to foster competition in TV program production and procurement."

It also said limitations on the networks would "greatly reduce possible conflict of interest" in financial control over programs.

The rule would draw a 50 per cent limit on the number of programs that the three major networks — ABC, CBS and NBC — could produce and broadcast during the prime evening viewing hours between 6 and 11 p.m.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK: Year of Epochal Decision: 1865

13-A "It is one of the peculiar characteristics of Wade Hampton and those like him that from the fall of [Fort] Sumter [in 1861] until the day of occupation of Columbia by the Union Army, they should have boasted daily that they would burn their cities, bridges, and barns before the Yankee invader; that they would immolate themselves upon the ruins of their homes, etc. Yet when the Federal army did appear . . . and when their property was sacrificed by the destruction that is an inevitable incident in war, they crouch among the ashes and waste the days in fruitless complaints."

That was a retort of a correspondent with General Sherman's capture of the South

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Carolina capital city, to charges the Federal troops had been ruthless arsonists at Columbia. It was raked by flames during the same hours, Feb. 17-18, 1865. Charleston was being given up by the Confederates without a fight.

The correspondent, George Nichols, continued his castigation of Wade Hampton, Rebel cavalry commander in South Carolina, "Columbia was burned because of Hampton's recklessness in firing thousands of bales of cotton which he had placed in all the streets of the city." He related that smoking flakes of cotton were flying overhead as the first echelons of Sherman's army entered the city. He had remarked to himself, "That cotton is as dangerous as so much powder."

Nichols was with Sherman when the general met the mayor of Columbia and introduced Gen. O. O. Howard, as commander of the troops which would occupy the city. He quoted Sherman, "The people and their houses will be respected, but we shall take supplies which can be used for the army."

Hits Bottom

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dr. Charles L. Drake, oceanographer for the Lamont Geological Laboratory at Columbia University, paid a visit to Rice University recently and told of the first efforts to scan the bottom of the sea.

Does He Rate A Double Salute?

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Colonel Nelson, who has been Colonel Nelson ever since he was born, is now Col. Colonel Nelson. Department director for the commanding staff of the U. S. Army Reserve school at Fair Park here, Nelson recently added the military title of colonel to his first name of Colonel.

Disrupt Service

SURRY, N.H. (UPI) — Several times within a recent five-day period, squirrels have climbed poles and disrupted electric service in Surry, Westmoreland and West Chesterfield.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average homemaker spends $200 a year on apparel.

But averages can be deceiving. For example, the family with an income of $10,000 or $15,000 puts out nearly $500 a year on women's clothes. The woman gets just $187 worth of new togs in families with incomes of $4,000 to $5,000 a year. The typical woman in her thirties probably has as much as $2,000 worth of clothes in her closet, bought during the past five years or so.

Whatever your income, these figures from Uncle Sam's statisticians point to an interesting conclusion: You may have more money hanging in your closet than you have in a savings account.

"That's one reason you ought to know the value of the contents of your closets," says Walter H. Vernier, vice president of State Farm Fire and Casualty Co.

Vernier advises that you keep an inventory of any new clothes purchased this season. In case of a fire in your home or apartment, such an inventory could be invaluable.

In fact, it's sound to have an inventory of everything in your home.

Here's why: The comprehensive coverage provided for your household and personal possessions through the popular "package" homeowners and apartment dwellers coverage will reimburse you for loss due to fire, theft and other perils specified in the policy.

But, before you collect, you must present your insurance company with a list of the items that have been lost or damaged. All insurance companies ask for such an inventory. Producing the list isn't always as easy as it seems.

In the excitement following a fire or other misfortune, people often forget hundreds of dollars worth of possessions for which they could make legitimate claims.

Vernier said one company in the industry had a claimant who even forgot to list a baby grand piano among items lost in a fire.

Here's what you ought to do to make sure your possessions, including clothes, are protected:

—Make a list of all valuables and their worth. Give a copy to a friend or your lawyer, or keep one in your safety deposit box.

—Add new items to the list as you purchase them. Take old ones off as you dispose of them. Bring the list up to date once a year.

—Take photographs of your possessions. Snapshots of your home or apartment interior can be filed as part of your insurance application, thus providing a visual record of the quantity and quality of your possessions.

Agree To Inspection

JERUSALEM (UPI)—A United Nations spokesman said Monday Israel has agreed to an inspection of Israeli-Syrian border areas, where there have been a number of recent shooting incidents.

The rattlesnake is the most widely distributed poisonous reptile in the forests of the United States.

Steel Production Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steel production rose to a record 2.78 million tons last week, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported Monday.

Last week's output, equal to 149.2 on the Institute's index, was up 0.3 per cent over the 2,771,000 tons produced the week before.

Loose Interest

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)— Inmates of the New Hampshire State Prison have lost their interest in puzzles.

The prison report showed that during the past year circulation of puzzles in the prison library decreased from 307 to 164.

Once-Dominant Britain Now Most Vulnerable Of Major Industrial Powers

By TOM OCHILTREE
LONDON (AP) — Not since the days of World War II have the British felt so exposed as now. They have discovered their country is the most vulnerable of the world's major industrial powers.

Yet it seems only the day before yesterday when Britain was a dominant power with a world-girdling empire of 16 million square miles.

Now the empire has been replaced by a loose Commonwealth of independent nations which make their own decisions regardless of London's wishes. Britain has to fight harder each year to export her goods overseas. Successive British governments find it increasingly difficult to pay for a first-line military establishment.

Individually the British people now are more prosperous than they were in the days of empire. They eat better, wear better clothes and have more amusements. Consumer expenditure increased by 22 per cent between 1956 and 1963.

Yet economists worry about the long range prospects of this island kingdom and about the stability of its currency, the pound sterling.

The British people, all 54 million of them, are packed together on an industrialized island at an average density of 564 to the square mile.

They must trade or starve. But in the last 10 years Britain's share of world exports of manufactured goods has slumped from one-fifth to one-seventh. At the turn of the century it was one-third.

London political writers refer to Britain as "the sick man of Europe" — a title once applied to the old Turkish empire.

People who remember the way things were before World War II find the British more charming, more easy to love now than they were when the sun never set on the empire.

Then Britain ruled a quarter of the globe. London commanded an empire greater even than the one ruled by ancient Rome.

British diplomatic influence extended to every world capital. A giant navy showed the flag in every quarter of the globe. The colonies fed raw materials at favorable prices to British industry and took large quantities of British manufactured goods in return.

But today the central belief in the rightness of everything British is gone.

What has caused these changes? What ails the British?

Some historians think the illness began as early as July 25, 1900. On that day a flimsy airplane made of wire and sticks flew from Calais to Dover with Louis Bleriot, the French aviation pioneer, at the controls.

No one realized it at the time but suddenly all the giant steel battleships ringing the British Isles got a lot older that day.

Then came World War I with its casualties and dispersal of national wealth. The 1916 Easter uprising of Irish nationalists in Dublin marked the beginning of a long march of peoples away from British rule.

The empire actually reached its greatest territorial limits in the years between the two world wars but nationalist demonstrations in India and elsewhere showed its days were numbered.

World War II was a particularly heavy blow. It ran down British domestic capital by $8.4 billion through shipping losses, bomb damage and arrears of industrial maintenance and replacements.

The sale of $2.8 billion worth of overseas investments, nearly half in North America, caused a basic alteration in Britain's financial situation.

Like many before them, the British found that loss of wealth brought loss of influence. This was masked in recent years, however, by the skill of British diplomacy — by the ability to use words and ideas skillfully enough to hold on to a sizable role in international affairs.

But two political earthquakes rocked this position. The first was the abortive Suez invasion of 1956 when world public opinion forced the British and French to call a halt to their operations against President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

The second setback came on January 29, 1963 in Brussels. That was the day President Charles de Gaulle's France vetoed Britain's application to enter the six-nation Common Market, a trade grouping which aims at some form of political unification of Western Europe.

Foes Of Bay Bridge Bill Continue Delay Tactics

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Opponents used delaying tactics Tuesday for the fourth straight day to stymie administration attempts to push a bill calling for a new Maryland bridge across Chesapeake Bay.

By growing margins, the House beat off two amendments to the administration bill, which also calls for a new Baltimore Harbor tunnel and plans for third and fourth bay bridges.

Then Del. Frank J. McCourt, D-Balto 2nd, offered another amendment and moved that further action be postponed for another day, ostensibly to allow time for study of the amendment. He was supported by four other members and the delaying motion was automatically granted.

"This is causing undue delay," protested Del. Roy N. Staten, D-Balto County. As chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he has the job of shepherding the controversial bill through the House.

The tunnel-bridge bill has been snarled in a dispute on at least two major points. One, pressed by some delegates in Baltimore and Baltimore County, is whether the second bay bridge should be built before a second crossing of Baltimore Harbor.

The second, pressed by some Southern Maryland and Eastern Shore delegates, is based on opposition to the roads commission's plan to build the second bay bridge parallel to and near the present mid-bay span. Some of these delegates favor a location north of the present bridge and others favor one south of it.

Before McCourt's delaying action, the House rejected by a 88-45 margin an amendment which would let the roads commission decide whether the new harbor crossing should be a tunnel or a bridge.

Minority Leader J. Glenn Beall Jr., R-Allegany, sponsor of this proposal, said the choice was "an engineering decision that should be left in the hands of engineers on the roads commission and not be made by non-engineers in the legislature."

Defeated earlier by an 84-31 vote was another amendment by McCourt. This would have prohibited the commission from using construction funds to pay for preliminary need and traffic studies of proposed new toll projects.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Armed Services subcommittee will begin hearings Thursday on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's controversial plan to merge Army Reserve units with the National Guard.

Grissom Sister Voices Relief At Flight's End

BALTIMORE (AP)—Each time Astronaut Virgil (Gus) Grissom began an orbit in the "Molly Brown" Tuesday, his sister, Mrs. J. M. Beavers of suburban Lansdowne, went with him.

"I don't know how I can express my reactions," the shy, attractive brunette told a newsman as she, her husband and two of their three daughters watched the space flight on television.

"He may not have white knuckles, but I have. Some of his confidence has rubbed off, but we're still nervous."

"We talked to Gus last night before he went to bed. He seemed calm and in very good spirits."

"He was very anxious to get on the flight today. Everything was well, it was A-O-K."

Mrs. Beavers' husband, Joseph, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employee, looked at his watch.

"The phone has been ringing constantly," he said. "Friends and other people are watching and feel it would be nice to call."

Beavers glanced quickly at the television set, and added: "We don't mind too much."

Mrs. Beavers, who has lived in the Baltimore area for the past five or six years, is proud that her brother is chief astronaut on the Gemini team. She said she has seen a lot of him during the past two years and he usually gets in touch with her when he makes unannounced trips to the Martin Co. at Middle River, Md., where the Titan rocket was built.

She was asked if she worries about her brother during his space flights.

"Worry is probably not the word," she said. "We are all concerned, just as we were when he was flying 100 missions in Korea and testing airplanes at Wright-Patterson (Ohio) airfield."

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—John R. Jewell, state commissioner of motor vehicles, said Tuesday spot checks by his department indicates some auto insurance companies are issuing UCI-1A forms to persons whose policies are canceled the same day.

The UCI forms are required by the Department of Motor Vehicles as proof that applicants for license plates have liability insurance coverage. If a UCI form is not submitted with the tag application, the driver must pay a $70 fee to the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

Jewell said his department's checks in some cases indicated deliberate attempts by the companies to help drivers avoid payment of the $70 fee. He said the information would be turned over to the attorney general in early April.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon announced Tuesday approval of the merger of Citizens National Bank of Laurel, Md., and Central Bank of Howard County, Clarksburg, Md.

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—Uncleanliness in most of Carroll County's public schools has been blamed by a school official on poorly trained personnel and limited funds.

Dr. Samuel M. Jenness, superintendent of schools, gave these reasons after Dr. Karl M. Green, a Sykesville pediatrician, reported to the county health department that only three of more than 30 schools were without sanitary problems.

The report, result of a five-month survey started after parents complained, said the schools were not clean over-all, especially in hallways, rest rooms, around water fountains and in dining areas.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Del. Julian LaPides, D-Balto 2nd, urged Tuesday that automobile insurance firms described last week as being financially shaky be suspended immediately.

LaPides made the proposal in a letter to F. Douglass Sears, state insurance commissioner. It was prompted by Sears' testimony before a legislative committee last week that some firms appeared to be on shaky financial ground.

LaPides said that permitting these firms to continue operating could cause Marylanders "an untold burden."

Soviet Farm In Red

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A model farm set up with Soviet aid in 1956 is running in the red. The 30,000-acre farm, which uses Soviet agricultural techniques, had a net operating loss of $247,000 in the last fiscal year, the Indian government announced.

There are about 2,000 known specimens of the firefly and the distribution is worldwide.

POWERFUL LIGHT IN A PETITE PACKAGE

... the TENSOR 5975. Portable, personal, ruggedly handsome, this miniature high-intensity lamp casts the whitest, brightest, easiest-on-the-eyes light you've ever read, written, manicured, shaved, applied make-up, painted, or threaded a needle by.

Its giraffe-like neck bends and swivels every which way to beam the light exactly where you want it. It's practically tip-proof, too, thanks to a weighted base.

Key to its brilliant performance is the Tensor-engineered transformer that steps down the voltage of a standard AC socket, steps up the intensity of light to the equivalent of 200 watts on Hi, 100 watts on Lo.

The Tensor 5975 is American-made, carries the UL seal of approval, is fully and lifetime guaranteed against defective materials and workmanship.

You'll find a thousand-and-one uses for this wonderful little lamp around the home, the office, the laboratory, or wherever. Carry it from room to room, set it on the piano, hang it on the wall, take it on trips. It makes an imaginative gift, too.

Cumberland Firm Is Low Bidder

The State Roads Commission has notified District 6 headquarters here that the Cumberland Contracting Company was the low bidder for a contract which includes a dual-purpose road and bridge from Naves Crossroads east to the approximate location of old U.S. Route 40.

The firm bid $428,122.13 for the contract on February 23, according to John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer.

The service road and bridge will begin .086 mile west of Naves Crossroads and proceed easterly .473 mile. It will be used as a detour when the six-lane highway connecting Long Hill and the foot of Martin Mountain is built and thereafter will be a service road for the area.

ROME (UPI) — The Defense Ministry reported Tuesday that four sailors were missing and 11 injured following a collision of the Italian navy frigate Castore and a transport ship Monday night off the Calabrian coast.

Mills Elected At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Republican Herman L. Mills won a closely contested race and narrowly edged Democrat Charles B. Huyett Tuesday, 5,563 to 5,043 to become mayor of this Washington County seat.

Mills, 72, had served as mayor here for one term from 1949 to 1953 but was defeated in his bid for re-election by Winslow F. Burhans, 5,720 to 4,532. Burhans retained the post for three terms. He did not seek re-election this year.

Although Mills won the mayorality race, the voters turned back his major platform plank—the sale of the Municipal Electric Light plant to Potomac Edison Co.

Mills endorsed the sale during the campaign while Huyett fought against it. The voters defeated the sale in a referendum 6,060 to 3,725.

Elected to the five-man city council were two Republicans—Donald E. Hubert and Romayne M. Beyard—and three Democrats—Arthur G. Fouche, William E. Harne and Ralph L. Funkhouser.

Youth Is Unhurt In Brush With Car

A five-year-old boy escaped serious injuries yesterday afternoon when he ran against the side of a moving car on Valley Street, near its intersection with Bond Street.

The lad, Randy Douglas, 212 Valley Street, was treated in Memorial Hospital for bruises on the arm after he ran into the vehicle operated by John Delbert Kelly, 45, of 1211 Bedford Street. Officer Frank Valentine investigated for city police.

Parkersburg Man Killed By Train

TERRA ALTA, W. Va. (UPI)—The body of Richard X. Osler, 65, Parkersburg, was found along Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks Monday a few hours after he left Hopewell Sanitarium without permission.

The body was noticed by a second train which passed the area a few hours after he was struck. Hospital officials said Osler often left without permission.

Total annual loss to farmers from plant diseases, insects and weeds in the United States is about $13 billion.

SRC Employees Are Honored

Three area employees of the State Roads Commission were among the 18 honored Monday in Annapolis by Governor Tawes and SRC Chairman John B. Funk for 40 and 45 years of service.

They include Harry Bittinger, 45 years, motor equipment operator for Garrett County; Luther Bowser, 40 years, road foreman, Garrett County, and Luther M. Houck, 40 years, road foreman, Washington County.

Also honored for 40 years of service was Paul A. Kempter, highway engineer, who served here for a number of years as assistant District 6 engineer-construction, and was transferred to SRC headquarters in 1956.

Certificates and watches were presented to the veteran SRC employees.

Cardinal Encourages Rights Participation

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore predicted Tuesday an increased participation of Roman Catholics in civil rights demonstrations.

Cardinal Shehan, in an interview, said he felt participation by clergymen of all faiths in vote.

such demonstrations is proper and should be encouraged. The cardinal, here for Archbishop John P. Cody's pallium investiture services, expressed deep concern "about the central problem of equal rights for Negroes, particularly the right to vote."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am ashamed of my own son. Several months ago he married a very fine girl. She is teaching to help put her young husband through his last year of college. This girl is trying to keep house and teach, too. It's not easy.

All my son thinks about is his homework. I've seen him sit at his desk and not even move while she struggled to get through the door with a load of laundry. He is too engrossed in his books to help this girl carry the groceries upstairs to their apartment.

If dinner isn't ready on this dot he is impatient and critical. The minute he is finished eating he goes to his homework and doesn't offer to dry the dishes or carry out the garbage.

I know you are against mother-in-law interference, but I hate to see this girl treated so shabbily. Please tell me if I am justified in speaking out. —SILENT BUT SAD

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Not only are you justified in speaking out, but you have an obligation to finish the job you apparently bungled when your boy was growing up. Clearly, this can't be described as mother-in-law interference because you aren't dealing with an in-law — but your own son.

Speak to him privately — not in the presence of his wife — or you might create additional problems for her. And it sounds as if she has more than she can handle now.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The children in my husband's family were not born with silver spoons in their mouths, but poker chips.

Every year for the past ten we have all gathered in my in-laws' home for the major holidays. It's always the same story. No grace is said before meals, and there is no conversation at the table. It's "Quick, let's eat and get it over with." Then, "Your deal, deuces wild. Ante up. You're shy a blue."

This year we gave up beautiful church services and dinner with my folks so we could drag four small children to look at a deck of cards. I always get a terrific headache from the yelling and the cigar smoke.

After an hour of trying to read in the next room and attempting to keep the kids from tearing the house from its foundation I suggested to my husband that we leave. He said, "I'm in no hurry."

My husband agrees that it is smoky and noisy over there but he also says he enjoys being with his family and that I should be a good sport. Frankly I am fed up. Is there an answer? — HEADED FOR A SHOWDOWN

DEAR ANN: What is your chief beef? Do you resent going to your in-laws for all major holidays or do you resent the poker games?

I will support your position if it is Number One. Holidays should be alternated between the in-laws.

If it's the poker games you object to, I'm with your husband. You are not going to elevate his family's tastes, so stop knocking the clan or they will get the impression you are stuck-up.

Confidential to CAN'T UNDERSTAND WOMEN: This no man could understand. She was not trying to ditch you. A stand-up girl and sit-down shoes could shorten any woman's evening.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts" enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Holdup Artist, Yugoslav Style

RIJEKA, Yugoslavia (AP)—A young man sauntered into a shop in this Yugoslav port city with a parcel under his arm.

Unhurriedly, he unwrapped it, while sales girls looked on curiously, and took out a gun.

"It's a holdup," he informed them, and collected 18,000 dinars ($24), a loaf of bread and a sausage.

Then, unhurriedly, he wrapped the gun up in the parcel again, walked out and disappeared in the crowd.

Woman Has Unusual Job Of Leading River Trips

By LEN LYDECKER

CHICAGO (UPI) — George White looks like the type of daring woman who could climb into a rocket and shoot for the moon without batting an eyelash.

The blue-eyed, deeply tanned Mrs. White is known as "the woman of the rivers" because of her current job, shooting the rapids in boats. But in her time she pedaled across the country by bicycle, broke the ice in Lake Michigan as a member of the Polar Bear Club, and joined the plane ferrying service in World War II.

Mrs. White, here recently for a boat show, told of how she left her native Chicago and headed for New York during the depression in the 1930's. She became interested in watching the six-day bicycle riders in Central Park and mentioned wanting to get to the West Coast although she was nearly broke.

One of the riders gave her a bike and she pedaled to California in one month, buying food from farmers along the way and sleeping in haystacks.

Mrs. White, daughter of a French father and an Irish mother, said she became interested in exploring after World War II when she "discovered" the Colorado River, and especially the Grand Canyon. As a result, she now is the only woman river runner on the Colorado.

She conducts two types of river tours. Parties of between 10 and 12 persons are taken for one to three weeks of shooting the rapids in three 17-foot long, and sturdy, nylon boats, usually lashed together. Between 25 and 35 persons make the Grand Canyon tour in a 34-foot craft that is divided into 10 sections. Mrs. White said the cost of the trip is about $100 per person per week and nights are spent ashore in temporary camps. Those making the trip are permitted cameras, but no spirits stronger than soda pop.

The river runner said she tries to add two new trips to her schedule each year. This year, one is set for the Rio Usumacinta in Mexico. The river drains much of Guatemala. The other planned for 1965 is along the South Nahanni River that starts in the Yukon territories in Canada and flows southeast. She said the Nahanni is a history of adventure, with lost gold mines, missing men, rapids and falls twice the height of the Niagara.

When not shooting rapids, Mrs. White lives in the Los Angeles, Calif., suburb of Midway City with her husband, James, who's retired, an Afghan hound, a Siamese cat, and a turtle Mrs. White refers to as "Speed to Spare".

Crash Pads

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Padded dashboards, available only in luxury autos a few years ago, will be included in about 60 per cent of all cars manufactured by Detroit in 1965, according to a major foam padding producer.

This represents a 20 per cent increase in crash pad use over the 1964 level, Goodyear's Foam Products Division says. "All the new luxury models will have safety padding, and 30 to 40 per cent of 1965 lower priced cars will include padded dashes."

Heart Toll

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Thirteen San Franciscans died every 24 hours from heart disease last year, according to a Heart Association.

THICK OR TREAT? — Maybe practicing for the up-coming tourist season, three raccoons look for a handout at Lake George, N.Y.

Pinon Nut Use Becoming Big Business In West

By ROBERT E. HUBER

SANTA FE, N. M. (UPI) — New Englanders roast chestnuts and Southerners crack hickory nuts with stones. But in the Southwest, where you'd least expect it, there's a tiny nut called the pinon that whets the average appetite.

More than a million pounds are expected to be harvested in the coming year for Eastern candy makers. The dwarf conifer pine which provides the nuts is becoming nearly as important to the Southwest as the fir is to the Northwest.

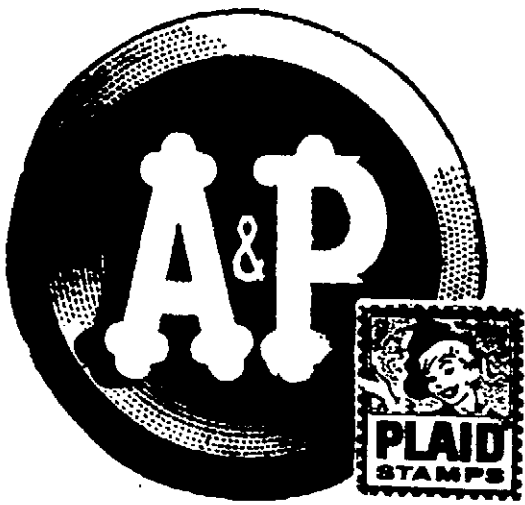

From Tucson, Ariz., to Denver, Colo., the conifer pine covers about 25 million acres. The tree also is used for fuel and is cut into beam poles for adobe homes in New Mexico.

The promotion of the pinon nut came through efforts of Indian traders in the Southwest, most historians agree. The Indians had been using the nuts from the Colorado pinon for centuries. Other species, including the Mexican pinon and the single-leaf pinon were also used. The nuts grow inside huge pine cones in the scrub trees. Since the conifer seldom grows larger than 20 feet, the nuts are easy to harvest.

But it takes the nuts two years to mature, and good crops of up to 300 pounds per acre occur only about every five years. It's not unusual in a New Mexico autumn to see Indians by the thousands along roadways harvesting the crop on reservations and federal lands. The harvest has become a picnic pastime for almost everyone in the Southwest.

Easter Seal Sale Returns Running Behind Last Year

Easter Seal Sale returns at the end of the first six days of the campaign are running about $250 behind last year's sales, according to George A. Schwarzenbach, Seal Sale chairman.

Approximately $1,400 has been received or about $250 less than the end of the first week a year ago, according to George A. Schwarzenbach, Seal Sale chairman.

The league, traditionally, does not set a goal for the campaign. A total of 15,000 mail appeals were sent out last Wednesday. There will be no reminders other than periodic reports on returns, Mr. Schwarzenbach said.

The league is solely dependent on voluntary contributions to provide care and services for a case-load of 1,600 patients.

During the past year, orthopedic clinics conducted at the League by Drs. George O. Eaton and E. David Weinberg, attracted 1,370; corneal palsy clinics with Dr. Wathrop M. Phelps, 64; and plastic surgery clinics with Dr. Edward A. Kikowski, 66.

The total examined at clinics was 1,539, including 310 new enrollees.

In addition, 51 children were seen at brace clinics held at League Headquarters in City Hall Plaza.

During the past year, 70 children were recommended for admission to hospitals and 95 others discharged as cured. Forty children received patient care in Baltimore and 20 transportation to that city.

Conferences and reference visits totaled 3,108. The speech therapist gave 1,946 treatments and the physical therapist 1,153. Eighty-eight children received new corrective shoes and 27 had shoes repaired. Special medicines were provided for two children and 44 were given diagnostic X-rays.

Johnson Heights PTA Elects Officers

New officers have been elected by the Parent-Teacher Association of Johnson Heights School.

The new slate includes Edward Shank, re-elected president; Andrew Velazquez, vice president; Mrs. Charlotte Northcraft, secretary, and Gordon Babcock, treasurer.

Paul Arbogast, principal, thanked the PTA members on behalf of the teachers for the faculty dinner given in their honor. He also announced that Mrs. Linda Coslett has replaced Mrs. Barbara Sawyer, who was granted a leave of absence from the school faculty.

Robert Carner gave a report on Troop 16, Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the PTA and attendance awards were presented to Mrs. Mary McFarland's room and Mrs. Mildred Kuhn's room.

Gordon Babcock, chairman of the ways and means committee, announced that the annual May Festival will be held on the school grounds on May 21, beginning at 8 p. m.

Mrs. C. William Dailey, chairman of the Red Cross blood program, made an appeal for volunteer donors and explained that there is no substitute for blood and it is used to help preserve and maintain the health and life of children, men and women. The Bloodmobile will make its next visit to Cumberland on April 5 at the Eagles Home.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Harold Allen, program chairman, introduced Miss Mary E. Straw, Miss Margaret Doak and Miss Elizabeth Flake, elementary supervisors, who discussed "The new mathematics program".

The speakers pointed out how the new arithmetic program helps children to enjoy mathematics to a greater extent, and features modern application of concepts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kenneth Hensel, Mrs. Don-

County May Change Date Of Tax Levy

Commissioner Robert Little Ebert, who handles the financial functions of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners, said that it looks like the levy date can be moved forward to the first Tuesday in May next year.

Commissioner Ebert said that with the new equipment in the tax office and through more efficient operations of the office, the tax bills can be prepared in plenty of time.

Another factor which will aid in the proposal is the start of the tax discount period was moved from June to July last year.

With a May levy date the county commissioners will have enough time to figure in any effects of legislation at the General Assembly, which ends March 31.

County Gets Budget For Local College

The proposed budget for Allegheny Community College was submitted to the county commissioners yesterday by Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the school.

For the 1965-66 school term the budget costs to Allegheny County will be $100,000 and Dr. Zimmer said this is a maximum figure which may be slightly lower depending on legislation now before the General Assembly.

A total figure of $320,847 for the college was listed by Dr. Zimmer. The total for the school term which ends in June is $340,290.

The college head stated that an enrollment of 500 students is estimated for the next school term, with 350 full-time and 150 part-time students. Large graduating classes in Allegheny County high schools and an expected accreditation of the college are two factors which were used in projecting the enrollment increase of about 20 per cent, Dr. Zimmer stated.

The county, state and students share in the costs of tuition which is expected to be $750 per student. The county and state will pay $250 each of this total cost and the student the balance in tuition and fees.

The student contribution for tuition and other fees will total $106,300 compared to $73,390 for the current budget.

State funds in the new budget total $114,547 compared to $75,400 in the current budget. This figure includes $7,600 amount from the federal government under the National Defense Education Act.

County Welfare Budget Given

Miss Ethel Wilderman, director of the Allegheny County Welfare Board, has submitted the budget for the operation of her department to the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners.

The budget total is $2,095,823.04 with the county providing $205,000 of the total. Miss Wilderman pointed out that the federal and state funds total $1,890,123.04. The federal government provides about 50 per cent of the entire budget.

One category of relief which is the largest in the welfare board's program is aid to dependent children and the federal government pays for 75 per cent of the total cost.

The county's share of welfare costs is pegged to the county's assessable basis. For each $100 of assessable property the county pay 10 cents for welfare. The county figure in the budget submitted by Miss Wilderman is based on the assessable total determined last year and may go as high as $218,000 as it is estimated that $218 million will be the final assessable basis used in the budget to be set April 6.

Navy To Shift A-Task Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy's four-ship nuclear-power task force will be transferred from the Atlantic Fleet to the Pacific Fleet beginning in October, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced Monday.

The force, headed by the 85,000-ton carrier Enterprise, includes the guided missile cruiser Long Beach and the guided missile frigates Bainbridge and Truxtun.

McNamara said the Enterprise and the 7,600-ton Bainbridge would join the Pacific fleet in October.

The 14,200-ton cruiser Long Beach and the 8,300-ton Truxtun will be shifted in 1966.

There was no indication that the shift was directly related to the war in South Viet Nam. But the Enterprise will add a mighty aerial punch to forces in the western Pacific.

Electrician Finds Skull In Ceiling

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An electrician Monday found a skull in the ceiling of a building under renovation in the center city area.

Aaron Ehrlich, 45, said he found the skull while preparing to install new wiring in a third floor room of the building.

The skull was taken to the medical examiner's office for study. Investigator Frank Gifford said he thought the skull was very old and may have served at one time as a medical specimen.

Labor Peace

BONN (UPI) — Labor peace in West Germany was almost complete during 1964, the Federal Statistical Office reported. Of about 22 million employed, only 5,629 workers went on strike in 34 factories, causing a loss of 10,711 working man days.

The number of strikes and working days lost through strikes was the lowest since 1949, when strike records for the post-war period began.

Westernport Purchases Possible Fire Hall Site

WESTERNPORT — A possible site for the proposed new fire hall for the Potomac Fire Company, Inc., is being considered by the Town of Westernport.

The property of Mrs. Clara Patton was purchased for $12,000 and consists of a two-story double frame dwelling on a lot with 50 feet frontage on the east side of Main Street with a depth of 200 feet.

Purchase of the property was announced Monday night during a joint meeting of the town of officials and the Planning Commission. An alternate plan for the plot would be a municipal parking lot if it is considered feasible to relinquish the present city parking area on Main Street for use by the fire company.

Town officials will name a citizens group to coordinate the planning and action of the proposed project with a committee of the fire company.

A study of the possibilities of the site, desired features to be incorporated into a building plan and estimated costs to secure an architect's draft of the proposed building will be duties of the committee.

A fire tax of 10 cents on each $100 of assessable property valuation has been proposed for the financing of the project. A referendum on the fire tax assessment has been tentatively set for Tuesday, June 1.

The outcome of the special election will determine if the proposed plans for a new fire hall to replace the present outmoded, crowded facilities housing the fire equipment in the city building can be realized in the near future.

The recovery of the cost of the property purchased Monday is anticipated from parking meter receipts. The present parking lot was purchased in 1953 from the Morrison heirs. The total cost including improvement was $30,000 which was repaid in less than eight years through parking meter receipts and savings realized on gasoline by having a gas tank erected on the lot for use of the town.

Other matters discussed at the meeting were the proposed new subdivision ordinance which is in the hands of Lee Barnett Jr., town attorney for study and suggested amendments for charter revision; preparation of the recreation site, and the duties of the Westernport Library trustees named recently by Mayor Ray L. Will.

Okey Michael, chairman of the Planning Commission, will arrange a meeting with the library trustees, Mayor Will and Mayor Herman Haywood of Luke to discuss the possibility of a new library to serve the two communities.

Interested seniors of the area are asked to report to 203 Administration Building where the test will be administered by Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, professor of Journalism. Tests will be returned to the Foundation for grading.

The test usually consists of the writing of a news story from facts presented to the student.

The scholarships are named for the West Virginia Press Association, which made the money available through newspaper contributions.

The Journalism Foundation, a non-profit corporation, was established for the furtherance of Journalism and Journalism education in West Virginia.

Gray Ladies Meeting Held At Piedmont

WESTERNPORT — Request for Gray Ladies to go into homes and care for the sick was discussed during a recent meeting of the Potomac Valley Red Cross Gray Ladies at St. Ann's Hotel.

However due to the size of the group and its obligations to Potomac Valley Hospital, and since members have had no actual nursing training for such a project, the group decided the program cannot be undertaken.

It was suggested that the group start a drive for paper back books for distribution to hospital patients. Mrs. Anne Grindle volunteered as chairman to work with hospital personnel in making arrangements for the program.

New schedules were prepared for floor and desk work at the hospital in Keyser.

Mary Michael gave invocation, and following the luncheon, several humorous readings were given after which Mrs. Elaine Walsh presided at the business meeting.

The tentative date for the next meeting of the group has been set for May 19.

Others who attended the meeting include Mrs. Thelma Oates, Mrs. Winnie Bosley, Mrs. Lillian Dawson, Mrs. Freda Elliott, Mrs. Edna Kooker, Mrs. Lorraine Whisner, Mrs. Virginia Whisner, Mrs. Sara Moran, Mrs. Marjorie Simpson, Mrs. Violet Hamilton, Mrs. Rosetta Kephart, Mrs. Louise Oza, Mrs. Lillian Smith, Mrs. Cleo Wilkins, Mrs. Evelyn Wilson and Mrs. Jean Seward, executive secretary of the Mineral County Red Cross.

PTA Event April 20 At Lonaconing

LONAONING — The annual dinner of the Parent Teachers Association of Central Elementary School is being planned for April 20, said Miss Helen Smith who presided at a recent meeting.

Miss Alice McCormick, principal of the school, said the school will be closed on Monday, April 5, as it will be a Professional Day for the teachers.

The annual operetta will be presented on April 26 and 27 with all six grades participating. Miss McCormick added.

Wallace Ullery, treasurer of the American Field Service of Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, was guest speaker at the recent meeting. He explained that AFS promotes better understanding throughout the world and the organization sponsors international scholarships.

These foreign exchange students are ambassadors in the teen age group according to Mr. Ullery who introduced Tor Erik Sand, foreign exchange student from Norway who is attending Fort Hill High School.

The visiting student presented colorful slides of his native land and spoke to the group. Mrs. Donna Miles was program chairman.

WESTERNPORT — The annual dinner for St. Peter's Church Parish sponsored by the Parent Teachers Association will be held Sunday, from 1 to 6 p.m. in the Victory Hall, American Legion Home.

The occasion serves as the only get-together of the year for participation of the entire parish and is open to the public.

Tickets for the roast beef dinner may be obtained by calling Mrs. William Metz Jr., 359-7227 or at the door.

Mrs. Thomas Donnelly will be in charge of the candy booth; Mrs. James Darr, the parcel-post booth, which will have for sale packages received from former parishioners and a novelty booth.

Mrs. James Rafter will be in charge of the dining room. Mrs. Julius DiGirola and Mrs. Arone DiUbaldo are co-chairmen of the kitchen committee.

DISCUSSES GAS — Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, in a Pentagon statement yesterday, tells newsmen the gas supplies by this country to South Viet Nam are the same "riot control agents" that police forces use to quell civil disturbances. (AP Photofax)

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The greatest overnight transition in recent show biz history took place this week when actor Richard Crenna jumped from loser to winner in the same day.

Crenna was the biggest loser imaginable. His first starring motion picture, "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home," was tied up by the courts and his television series, "Slattery's People," was under cancellation.

It was enough to drive him to washing shirts in his own laundry. He does own a laundry.

Then, without warning, the sun not only came shining through, the end of the rainbow fell on Crenna—and it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

The courts reversed a ruling on Goldfarb which had been tied up by the University of Notre Dame. And within hours CBS-TV announced Slattery would be back next season.

Said, Crenna: "I feel just great."

The actor was still reeling from the sudden change in his fortunes.

"I was upset about the cancellation, but I didn't let it throw me. If the Nielsen ratings are the way they play the game; then fine, I'm willing to play it."

"But I felt badly toward the end of the season because our show had begun to pick up momentum. After we were moved to Friday nights we picked up the big 'Gomer Pyle' audience and we'd moved into the top 25 or 30 shows—which made us a success."

"But the important thing was the tremendous response by viewers to the news that we were canceled. They wrote to CBS and our sponsors imploring them to keep us on the air."

Critics praised the show unstintingly all season long. It was a quality series in sharp contrast to fuzzy situation comedies and lame brain adventure dramas.

"I always thought the series would be a slow starter," Crenna said, "and I thought it was saying something good, something important."

The show deals with a state political leader and delves into the conflicts, drama and abuses of government on many levels. Crenna portrays a brilliant young lawmaker who is not above politicking to gain his ends.

Curiously, Goldfarb was as much criticized as Slattery was praised. But Crenna couldn't care less.

"I anticipate that Goldfarb will be a boxoffice success," he said. "All the publicity should help it out. And I did believe that eventually Goldfarb would be released."

"But I thought the ship had sailed for Slattery. I can't say how gratified I am that we'll be back next year. And I'm equally gratified to know that the show will be even better next season."

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans climbed weak in heavy, weather steady in firm corn easy in weak, oats mixed, and rye weak on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

The final bell, soybeans were off 3 1/2 to 4 1/2; wheat up 1/4 to 1/2; corn off 3/4 to 1 1/4; oats off 1/4 to up 1/4; rye off 1/4 to 1/4.

Local long selling led in commodities, house liquidation and atopexa selling, and caused a sharp early decline in soybean prices. Export sales, largely to European countries totaled over 2 million bushels.

Wheat worked higher with buying influenced by belief Yugoslavia will buy considerable soft white and red wheat; local shorts covered in today's trading; and buying was scattered.

Corn firmed and then weakened as local selling was brought on by the break in soybeans.

Oats firmed early and weakened later, following the trend in wheat. Late selling was heavier near the close.

Board Suggests Reserving Space For Wider Street

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission last night recommended that the Mayor and Council ask that a proposed take-out restaurant opposite City Hall be set back far enough to allow for the future widening of Bedford Street.

City officials recently referred the application of Charles Paul Roeder for the building to the planning commission.

Plans call for the construction of a 24 by 32 foot, one-story building, with the front used for dispensing take-out food and the rear used as an office for the parking lot included in the plans.

compliments of the Kiwanis Club of Cumberland. It was compiled by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

The informative easy-to-read booklet explains disorderly conduct, petty larceny, use of weapons, shoplifting, truancy and vandalism, use of narcotics and the end to which misdeeds can lead.

Films from various organizations are invaluable in Mr. Williams' classroom work. The seventh graders have learned that Switzerland has no juvenile delinquency problem. Swiss youngsters for instance are controlled more by their parents, they are banned from motion picture theaters until they are 16 and parents do not tolerate their children getting a driver's license or motorbike license until they are at least 18 years old.

They know that broken homes, poverty, illiteracy, malnutrition, glandular imbalance, mental retardation, mobility of populations and other factors play large causative roles in juvenile delinquency. A solution to the problem on the local level as well as nationwide could result if youngsters make the most of their leisure time and share their talents in helping others, says Mr. Williams. Junior Red Cross work is a great example, according to the teacher who said Boy and Girl Scout and 4-H Club activities are also aids in combating delinquency.

Mr. Williams didn't just begin compiling his data a month or so ago. He has been working on the project four or five years in order to give a broader insight for the seventh graders in the five sections of his social studies class.

At the end of the month the Fort Hill teacher will find out how rewarding his efforts are when he gets back test papers from his students.

in the Reformed Church, according to police, who said no damage apparently was caused at the churches.

Abandon Cars

After the destructive spree at the school the youths reportedly went to Kowell Motors, Frostburg, took a 1965 car and drove to Winchester where two other cars were stolen.

The two cars which were stolen in the Virginia city were abandoned along the way as the four youths returned to the Frostburg area.

The car stolen from the Frostburg auto dealer was abandoned on Emily Street in Cumberland and the four youths hitchhiked back to Frostburg, police said.

Local police located the 1965 car and learned it belonged to the Frostburg car dealer.

Assisting the assistant police chief were Sgt. James Bucklew, John Starkey and James Pfaff, police officers at Frostburg.

Last night the 19-year-old youth was being held in the Frostburg jail, one of the juveniles was placed in custody of his parents and the other two were taken to the detention quarters of the County Infirmary.

Comprehensive Plan Updating Is Discussed

Plans for updating the city's Comprehensive Plan to reflect changes proposed in the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency's Center City general neighborhood renewal program were discussed last night by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

William F. DeMare, executive director of the agency, said the Housing and Home Finance Agency has recommended that changes be made in the text and maps to conform with federal regulations.

The proposal would require changes in the Land Use and Thoroughfare Plan and particularly the future land use plan, for which no base map was specified in the contract for the preparation of the Comprehensive Plan.

When the land use plan was prepared, no breakdown was made of the specific uses for public land. Since then, uses have been recommended in the Center City proposal.

The commission last night discussed a number of changes which the updated Thoroughfare Plan would show.

Included would be the Frederick Street underpass, the disappearance of parts of Bedford and Frederick streets, widening of Mechanic Street, closing of Liberty, George and Henry streets, the realignment of Pershing Street to meet Union Street and the new street between Centre Street and the new Loop Street.

Surplus government food will be distributed tomorrow from 9 a. m. until noon in the Ridgeley city building.

Eligible persons of the area are asked to bring their own containers.

Farm Program Deadline Set

Friday is the last day growers may file applications to take part in the 1965 feed grain program, said Brady H. Dolly, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

He reminds farmers that only those who participate in the feed grain program will be eligible for price support on their 1965 corn, barley and grain sorghum crops. As last year, the support is made available through loans and price support payments.

The chairman reports that farmer interest in the county is high and indications are that the 1965 participants will equal that under the 1964 feed grain program.

He is urging farmers who are interested in taking part in the program to call at the local ASCS office, 136 Union Street from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The sign up began on February 8, said Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, office manager.

Auto Dealer Law Enacted

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland regulation of auto dealers and salesmen was enacted by the legislature Tuesday.

Sen. Harry R. Hughes, D-Caroline, said the state expected the new laws would prevent evasion of the payment of the taxes on sales by some dealers and "pick up half a million dollars a year."

The dealers will be authorized to keep 2 per cent of the taxes for the cost of administration.

Dealers will have to pay a $15 license fee and put up a bond of $5,000. Salesmen will pay $5 for a license and post bond of $1,000.

Today's Wonder, Tomorrow's Routine

How strange it was that disclosure of day-by-day plans for a great scientific advance—for the first time man would pilot a ship in space—created the merest ripple of interest. Changing orbit at the will of the pilot and not at the command of an electronic signal from earth is a big step toward making space fiction reality.

The space age is not yet eight years old but already much of it has lost its wonder. The marvels of yesterday have become the commonplace of today. A space flight which less than five years ago would have thrilled people produces today languid interest at the best, and at the worst almost complete indifference.

There is nothing unusual in this process. It is a tribute to the assimilative powers of the human being. Once it was a thrill to go for a five-minute flight in a biplane; now people sleep in jet-plane flights across the ocean.

Getting used to wonders is understandable—people have always done it. What is new about present attitudes is that man is becoming indifferent to the fantastic, unless it is of earth-shaking significance. The "so what?" attitude is a modern defense mechanism, a symptom of the weariness with wonders.

A philosopher said that if the stars came out one night in a thousand years men would fall down and worship. Since they are visible most nights they are part of the order of things. Man has just as great a capacity to be bored as he has to be excited.

These Days

Learn From Japan

If, in such matters as guaranteeing the right to vote to all citizens, the country is in for a moral awakening, can Lady Bird Johnson's cherished esthetic awakening be very far behind?

The odds, at first glance, would seem to be against it. But the amount of passion that is being built up in the country against various practices that result in the fouling of our collective nest is bound to out. My friend Alan Seed, who runs a New York organization called Keep America Beautiful that is dedicated to the eradication of litter, tells me that his mail has tripled since Lady Bird Johnson started her "green heritage" campaign. The followers of the late Rachel Carson, who prophesied that we would some day have a landscape without songbirds if we didn't stop poisoning the soil with malignant chemicals, have just about taken over the garden clubs.

A branch of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is waging warfare on above-ground utility lines, and the City Manager of Oakland, Calif., is also getting into this act. And when I tried to call last week on the editor of the San Francisco News-Call Bulletin, he was at a meeting convened to consider ways and means of protecting San Francisco Bay from being used as a dumping ground for nauseous chemicals and unsightly fill.

To legislate a universal distance from practices that offend human eyes, ears, palate and nostrils is a virtual impossibility. Tastes differ. I know of one person, economist Murray Rothbard, who is bored by the sight of too much greenery; he likes to look at roadside billboards because they vary the monotony for him. A "consensus" for abolishing billboards by law would be savagely fought by the so-called billboard lobby, which is reputed to be the strongest lobby in the country next to the national pressure group maintained by the schoolteachers. But if Lyndon Johnson could get a blue-ribbon group of businessmen and bankers to cut down voluntarily on the money they normally put up for foreign investment, he might succeed in persuading certain big industrialists to give up at least some of the billboard advertising that they do.

Is it Utopian to think that the voluntary approach could possibly be extended to tackling the billboard blight? Well, in Japan the voluntary approach has worked, at least to some extent. In traveling to the West Coast I ran into the story of Hitachi, Ltd., which is the biggest Japanese manufacturer of electronic devices. Hitachi sells its products all over the world, from Tokyo to San Paulo in Brazil, and it is as wide-awake an advertiser as Madison Avenue could wish. But on its own free will it has gone out of the business of using billboards to sell its product.

It did this when its present executive managing director, Susumu Kiyonari, was put in charge of public relations for the company. The first thing that Mr. Kiyonari did as advertising and publicity director was to remove every bit of Hitachi billboard advertising from along the railway tracks of Japan. Then he turned his controlled wrath on telephone pole advertising. To make his point, he sent several of his employees on a company-paid expedition to the mountain resort of Nikko, not far from Tokyo. The employees got an eyeful of unsightly Hitachi telephone pole ads along the highway, and came back to the office in full agreement that they should be taken down. Susumu Kiyonari was gratified that the curtailment of billboard and telephone pole advertising had no appreciable effect on Hitachi's business. But, as a patron of Japanese art, which delights in uncluttered landscapes, he would have done what he did even if it had cost a little money.

There may be no Susumu Kiyonaris in America. But if Lyndon or Lady Bird Johnson can find one, it might help to get the "green heritage" crusade moving in high gear.

'I Said The Door's Locked - Do You Read Me?'

The Continuing North Vietnamese Infiltration

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — The President's policy of sustained pressure on North Vietnam is primarily, indeed solely, designed to persuade the Communist rulers of Hanoi to let their neighbors alone. It is well and wisely designed. No one should expect results overnight, either, for part of the wisdom of the policy is the careful dosing of the pressure.

Nonetheless, it is important to note that instead of beginning to let their neighbors alone, the North Vietnamese are increasing the scale of their infiltration-invasion of South Vietnam.

The dimensions of the increase are by no means easy to gauge. The North Vietnamese soldiers who are assigned to duty in the south come through Laos by the Ho Chi Minh Trail. They move partly by foot, but now quite largely by truck, down the jungle road as far as Tchepone.

Thence they cross the border on foot and in small units over devious and obscure trails into the South Vietnamese highlands. And from the highlands they work their way onward to their assigned operational provinces.

Such troop movement is bound to be shadowy at best. What is really happening now will not be absolutely known until a somewhat later time, when some of the North Vietnamese troops now engaged in this infiltration-invasion have reached the fighting front and have been captured and have been interrogated. Until then the analysts have to use guesswork-measures.

There is at least one important sign, however, that the infiltration-invasion has increased fairly massively. In brief, there are good reasons to believe that a North Vietnamese divisional headquarters, has lately been established on South Vietnamese soil, in a mountain hideout close to the Laotian border.

The increase in scale of the infiltration-invasion is a matter for serious concern because of the extremely narrow military balance that now exists in the first and second corps areas — the provinces of north and central South Vietnam. Very large numbers of additional North Vietnamese troops, assigned to one of these precariously balanced provinces, could in theory upset the local balance in a dramatic manner.

A dramatic victory, not military decisive but politically decisive because of its grave psychological repercussions, is in fact the specialty of the brilliant North Vietnamese commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap. That was what he pulled off at Dienbienphu. That, perhaps, is what he is now aiming for again.

The additional bodies provided by the increased infiltration-invasion may well be intended by Giap as the human raw material for a Dienbienphu-like effort in some such province as Quang Ngai. This does not mean, however, that the President's policy of sustained pressure is not working.

The contrary is probably the case. Most probably, in fact, the adoption of the policy of sustained pressure has driven Giap and his fellow policy-makers in Hanoi to accelerate their timetables and

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LOCAL TOUCH — Democrats have developed a new electronic gimmick to keep their newly-elected Congressmen in touch with the home folks. It's called "Public Affairs News" and is an operation of the Democratic National Committee.

Here's how it works. A Democratic Congressman picks up a telephone in his office and speaks some well-rounded phrases on a matter of interest to his district voters into a tape recorder in PAN's downtown Washington office. He then requests that these taped comments be sent to radio stations and newspapers in his district.

PAN takes over from there. An employee calls each designated station or paper and asks if the Congressman's comments are wanted. They're free and the answer usually is "yes."

The employee then has his customer switch the call to a tape recorder in the local office and plays the Congressman's message over the telephone. A few minutes or a few hours later, the Congressman can be heard or read over his local news outlets.

The system was begun early this year because of the large number of freshmen Democratic Congressmen. Many of these newly-elected Representatives come from Republican or marginal districts and they face heavy going for re-election late next year. The idea is to keep them in touch with their voters.

and squeeze the juice on poison ivy blisters. We grew up in Ohio and got poison ivy every summer but never worried about it. We used this simple remedy and the blisters dried up."

Old remedies never die and several products are an outgrowth of ancient herbal treatments. Digitalis came from foxglove, whereas several tranquilizers are obtained from rauwolfia root, a plant long known in the folk medicine of India.

Jewelweed may be elected to this select group. However, it will find the competition tough because the cortisone-type hormones are excellent remedies for contact dermatitis, including poison ivy.

DISCOLORED AREA

J. W. writes: Is there any way to make a black and blue mark disappear more quickly than letting nature take its course?

REPLY Only by applying heat to speed up the circulation. The next time you injure yourself, apply an ice bag immediately after the accident to curtail bleeding. As a result, the black and blue spot will be smaller and heal more rapidly.

MORNING NOSEBLEED

S. S. writes: I am a man of 61 who has been suffering from nosebleed on getting up in the morning. Can you please tell me the cause?

REPLY I can't, but your physician can. He will examine your nose to see whether an ulcer or tumor is present; take the blood pressure, examine your heart, and order blood tests to determine whether a bleeding tendency exists.

TREATMENT FOR INGROWN HAIRS

Mrs. C. D. writes: Can electricity eliminate bumps on my face caused by ingrown hairs?

REPLY No, but it is not practical unless the causative hairs are recognized. As a rule, different hairs are responsible and eliminating the culprit does not prevent others from ingrowing a few weeks later.

THE HEALTHY YEARS

B. M. T. writes: At what period of life does the average man have the greatest need for the services of a physician?

REPLY Before 10 and after 50. However, if more persons employed the physician before 50, there would be less need for him in later decades.

CONCEAL WITH COSMETICS

Z. B. writes: I'd like to know if there is a cure for vitiligo? What is this condition?

REPLY It is a disorder in which white patches develop on the skin because of a loss of pigment. The cause is unknown. Methoxsalen or trimethylpsoralen are helpful in some instances. Many victims avoid the sun or cover the patch with appropriate cosmetics.

THYROID DOSAGE

E. M. writes: Are three grains of thyroid extract daily considered a large dosage?

REPLY Yes, but it is surprising how much thyroid some tolerate without becoming jittery or developing palpitation. You should have a metabolism or protein bound iodine test.

TOMORROW: Hypochondriasis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Book Written By Freed Prisoner Influences End Of Death Penalty

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Isidore Zimmerman, the man who spent 24 years in New York prisons for a murder he never committed, and finally was released with apologies, is still suffering. Now in Seattle, where he went looking for work, he is still unable to find a job.

But his gripping book, "Punishment Without Crime," telling of the weeks spent in death row on the verge of execution, is reaping dividends for other people. Last week, Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee saved five prisoners from the death chair on the eve of their execution, after the Tennessee Legislature failed by one vote to abolish capital punishment.

One week before, West Virginia abolished capital punishment; and last week a New York State commission, the state which falsely sentenced Zimmerman to death, recommended the end of the death penalty.

Zimmerman in his book tells how his trouser legs had been slit for the electric chair, his head shaved for the electrodes, and he had been given his last dinner of steak and ice cream when the late Gov. Herbert Lehman commuted his sentence. Later, evidence turned up showing he was not guilty.

The President's message on Negro voting rights has fanned up a torrent of hate mail to Senators and Congressmen, most of it too vile to quote.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., answers such vilifiers by quoting the first chapter of John 1, Verse 20—"If a man say, 'I love God,' and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

Gromyko Decant's Smile

The rush visit of Britain's Foreign Minister Michael Stewart to Washington to report on his private talks with Foreign Minister Gromyko was prompted by growing Allied unhappiness with our bomb-until-you-negotiate policy in Viet Nam.

Gromyko, not noted for conviviality, was a bit more relaxed in 1964 talks with British and American diplomats. But not last week in London. There he was aloof and uncompromising in his flat refusal to consider steering the United States and North Viet Nam toward the conference table.

When the French wanted to get out of Indochina in 1954, it was Foreign Minister Molotov who arranged for peace talks in Geneva. When President Kennedy announced in 1961 that the United States was going all-out to stabilize Laos, then found the drain of blood and dollars was too much, the Russians discreetly helped get us of the hook. Laos was declared neutral.

But this time, despite four days of talks in London, Foreign Minister Gromyko told the British no soap.

He pointed out that those now running U. S. foreign policy had rebuffed De Gaulle's suggestion of mediation; also U Thant's suggestion. Therefore the Soviet would not go along with peace feelers until the United States stopped its policy of bombing-to-force-negotiation.

The British have considered themselves pretty good diplomatic middlemen, have earned the title of "honest brokers of diplomacy." But in the Vietnamese crisis, Foreign Minister Stewart fell flat on his face.

Note—The British are the staunchest supporters we have in Viet Nam bombing because British Malaysia faces threats from Indonesia. Of our other NATO allies, the Italians are unhappy, the Germans worried, the French bluntly critical.

Other Developments

Here are some additional backstage developments in the delicate, dynamite-laden Vietnamese crisis:

1. LBJ refused to answer a press conference question as to whether U. S. bombing had cut off Communist supplies and men to South Viet Nam. Reason for his refusal was obvious to those who read the intelligence cables. Aerial photos show that both supplies and men are still streaming steadily from the north into the south.

2. U. S. intelligence has shown no Russian arms shipments to North Viet Nam. This has been confirmed by a cable from U. S. Ambassador Foy Kohler in Moscow saying that the Russians have held off on shipping arms. However, Gromyko told the British that arms soon would be sent if U. S. bombing continued.

3. Chief reason the Russians don't want to join the British as peace negotiators is because the U. S. bombing policy is so unpopular throughout Asia, Africa, and even many parts of Europe.

Many senators who give LBJ 99 per cent support on domestic policies, consider him one of the ablest Presidents in history, are disturbed over the above facts. They feel that he has become the victim of two young hawk-minded advisers around him.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

BALTIMORE, Md. — He is a small man with pink cheeks, and eyes as dark and round as abandoned wells and he looks out the window of his new home and sees gold sun on the eaves across the street. "Eight minutes to sundown," he says, and goes back to his study of the Jewish-Catholic colloquy. He was a participant.

Rabbi Jacob Agus does not think it is amusing. He went to the archabbey at Latrobe, Pa., and he met the priests. The seminarians were cordial and enlightening and they asked him to show them the exact form of the Passover Feast. He knew much about their church, because the rabbi has studied the form and substance of all faiths. They knew a little about his.

Jewry is not easy to understand. It doesn't even have a point of view because it has no central authority. The communion of all Jews is in the five books of Moses. It does not matter whether the Jews are orthodox, conservative or reformed. They are bound by faith, by blood, by tradition and by Jehovah, the One God.

Rabbi Agus is the leader of the conservative temple, Beth El, in the Park Heights area of Baltimore. It is an upper middle-class section, and 800 families belong to the temple. The new building was erected in 1960, and is as modern as Lincoln Center in New York. A rich temple, however, cannot buy a ticket to paradise. A temple requires a teacher.

This is a good one. Better than good. Rabbi Agus, at the age of 53, is not only a graduate of Yeshiva, but has a Ph.D. and a master's degree from Harvard University. He has written several books about Jewish history, and is consultant of Jewish affairs to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

As the Giffen family of Georgia spawned great American rabbis, so too the Agus family raised rabbinical scholars in Italy, Germany, Poland and Lithuania in the past five hundred years. This one, born in Swislocz, on the border of Poland and Lithuania, grew to maturity at a time when war was the normal state and a boy might be Lithuanian today, Polish tomorrow, and Russian next week.

His only constancy was in being a Jew. It was unchanging, a solitary rock in a sea of hate. The large dark eyes have seen much, but they speak understanding. Now he stares out the window of his study and murmurs: "Eight minutes to sundown," because, in that time, his sabbath will end.

"A rabbi," said Dr. Agus, "is drawn to his calling not through piety of scholarship, but mainly because he is aware of the problems of the Jewish people." I asked him what we, who are Christians, can do to further understanding as he did when he visited the priests.

"I feel that we need to have confidence in Jewish hearts," he said. He looked out the window. The sun had set. . .

Leg Of Lamb
Elegant For Easter Feast

Toasted Tuna Teasers Create Unique Lenten Lunch

Leg of lamb is often regarded as a symbol of Spring. As such, even though it's now available throughout the year, it's certainly an appropriate roast to serve for this important occasion of the season.

Foods which complement lamb are also right in step with the season. Parsleyed new potatoes, broccoli, asparagus, strawberries—all can add lighthearted notes to Easter dinner.

Two popular styles of leg of lamb available are the American-style which has the shank (leg) bone removed and the meat tucked under to give it more of a square look and the French-style leg in which the meat is removed to expose an inch of bone on which a decorative paper frill is usually placed after roasting.

Both "styles" are cooked in the same way. Both should have the felt, the thin paper-like covering left on them. Felt helps the roast retain its shape during roasting and also helps shorten the cooking time.

Roast Leg Of Lamb

Select a 5 to 7-pound leg of lamb, felt left on. Season with salt and pepper. Place the cut side down on rack in an open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part of the leg. Make certain the bulb does not rest in fat or on the bone. Do not add water. Do not cover.

Roast in a slow oven (325° F.) for 3 or 4 hours. The roast meat thermometer will register 175° F. for medium-done or 180° F. for well-done. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for roasting time.

Let the lamb roast rest or "set" for 15 minutes before carving, about 15 minutes. This makes it easier to cut into attractive slices.

Always plan to serve lamb hot. If cold, never lukewarm. If you, the common tuna sandwich, like, pass a sauce along with the meal. Either of these is appealing.

Curran-Mint sauce uses 1 cup slices of white bread, along with currant jelly, melted over low heat. Add to it 1 tablespoon fine, finely chopped mint leaves and 1 teaspoon grated orange peel and mix well. Yield: 1 cup sauce.

Grape Sauce takes 1 cup grapefruit rind and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Heat slowly, stirring constantly, until jelly melts. If desired, sprinkle 2 to 3 teaspoons slivered, toasted almonds over the top before serving. Yield: 1 cup sauce.

Peach-Prune Pancakes

Heat together 1 can (1 pound) cling peach slices and 1 can (8 ounces) cooked prunes in their syrups with frozen orange-flavored breakfast drink to taste. Blend 2 tablespoons butter with 2 tablespoons cornstarch. Stir into fruit mixture; cook and stir until sauce is thickened. Spoon over pancakes or waffles.

Wover clams (in their shells) 4 slices of bread. Top tuna mixture with cold water and sprinkle with cornmeal; let stand for a then with another slice of bread. Mix flour with a small amount of the milk; then mix with remaining milk and egg. Dip sandwiches an exciting change of pace. It gives you a chance to collect enticing recipes, browse through cook books and try your skill at creative cookery. Preparing foods that are different from the usual routine can, squelch any family complaints about meatless meals.

Lenten meal planning can offer

One idea you might try for lunch time is this unique variation of the common tuna sandwich.

A crunchy tuna-celery filling, flavored with a touch of bottled lemon juice is spread between slices of white bread, along with slices of cheese. The sandwiches are then dipped in an egg-flour mixture and grilled until golden brown.

Be sure to make plenty of Toasted Tuna Teasers, for seconds are likely to be in demand.

Toasted Tuna Teasers

- 8 slices white bread
- 1 can (6 1/2 to 7 ounces) chunk-style tuna, drained
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of Paprika
- 4 slices American cheese
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Butter or margarine

Spread bread slices with butter or margarine. Mix tuna, celery, mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt and paprika. Spread tuna mixture on 4 slices of bread. Top tuna mixture with a slice of cheese, and place another slice of bread. Mix flour with a small amount of the milk; then mix with remaining milk and egg. Dip sandwiches

Raspberry Jam Cake

A Southern cake that is popular wherever it is served.

Raspberry Jam Cake
1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon each baking soda and salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup seedless black raspberry jam
1/2 cup each fine-cut dates, flaked coconut and fine-cut walnuts

Sift together the flour, soda, salt and cinnamon. Cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk and jam, fold in dates, coconut and walnuts with last of flour. Turn in two round 8-inch layer cake pans whose bottoms have been greased and lined with wax paper. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out on wire racks; remove paper; cool; fill and cover with white frosting.

Lenten Main Dish

Spicy creamed tuna is easily made. Blend 1 (10 1/2 ounce) can of condensed cream of celery soup with 1/2 cup of milk and 1/4 teaspoon of nutmeg in a saucepan. Add 2 (6 1/2-ounce) cans of tuna, drained, 1/2 cup of sliced sweet gherkins and 1 1/2 cups of coarsely chopped walnuts. Heat slowly, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle with paprika and serve on hot cooked rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Applesauce

Ever add a little grated lemon rind and a suspicion of nutmeg to prepared applesauce? Good to serve with pork.

Put honey in the freezer if planning to keep it long and store in small containers so just a little can be taken out at a time. This combination is particularly delicious with beef.

All-Purpose Topping

Crunchy topping for sundaes, puddings and coffee cakes can be made easily and kept on hand in the refrigerator for use as needed.

To make 4 cups, mix until crumbly 3 cups of rolled oats, uncooked, 1 cup of firmly-packed brown sugar and 2-3 cup of melted butter. Heat in shallow pan in preheated 350-degree oven for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool 15 minutes, then toss lightly with fork to form crumbs. Refrigerate in covered container. Stir with fork before using.

To use with coffee cake mix, prepare the mix as label directs, but sprinkle cinnamon mix topping that comes with the cake mix on top of the batter. Swirl it into batter lightly with a spatula and sprinkle top of batter 1/2 cup of homemade crunchy topping. Bake as label directs.

Rosy Fruit Pork Chops

Spoon drained canned fruit cocktail over partially baked pork chops. Top with red spiced apple slices. Drizzle with a mixture of apple and fruit cocktail syrups sparked with a little wine vinegar. Cover and continue baking until meat is fork-tender.

Good With Beef

Cut a loaf of French bread into slices but not all the way through to the bottom crust. Spread the cuts generously with a mixture of butter and blue cheese; heat just before serving. This combination is particularly delicious with beef.

Fried Cauliflower

French fried cauliflower gives a new look and new flavor to an old favorite. Sift together 1/2 cup each of corn meal and sifted all-purpose flour, and 1/2 teaspoon of salt. Add 1 egg, slightly beaten, 2-3 cup of milk and 2 tablespoons of melted or liquid shortening. Beat until smooth. Separate 1/4 pound of fresh cauliflower into flowerets. Using tongs, dip flowerets into batter; drain and fry a few at a time about 5 minutes or until golden brown in deep fat preheated to 350-degrees. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

For best flavor, brown ground beef in a little fat before using it in tomato sauce for spaghetti.

Cheese It

Crumbled blue cheese adds extra flavor and protein to meatless Lenten fare. Try adding it to macaroni and cheese casserole, to tuna fish and noodles, to salad dressings and scrambled eggs. Crumble blue cheese on thick tomato slices and broil them until cheese begins to melt, or crumble it onto bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches.

Nuts And Noodles

Ever try adding pine nuts to buttered noodles? Good with Paprika Chicken as a change from the usual poppyseed noodles.

Lenten Sandwich

Try dilled fish sandwiches for long Lenten fare. Combine 2 cups of flaked, cooked codfish with 1/4 cup each of chopped dilled pickles, chopped celery and mayonnaise, 1/4 teaspoon of seasoned salt, 1 teaspoon of dill pickle liquid and a dash of pepper. Mix lightly and chill. To serve, divide among four seeded hard rolls, halved and spread with mayonnaise and lettuce.

Fig-Stuffed Apples

Drain canned Kadota figs; use syrup as part of liquid for baking apples. Stuff centers of apples with figs and bits of lemon rind.

Leftover Ham In Encore

Have you ever spread applesauce on toast and munched contentedly?
Here's a take-off on this old idea for a snack.
Ham, of course, adds protein to this sandwich. Thus, it's more nutritionally adequate than the first idea of applesauce with toast. Try it for lunch.

Ham 'n' Applesauce Sandwich
2 cups chopped, cooked ham
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

1 cup applesauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 cup mayonnaise
4 to 6 slices bread, toasted
Combine ham, celery and green pepper. Mix applesauce, mustard and mayonnaise. Combine with ham mixture. Spread on warm, toasted bread. Yield: 2 1/2 cups.

Pineapple Chunks Served With Meat

Spiced pineapple chunks in extra heavy syrup are now available in 13 1/2-ounce cans. Serve the spiced chunks with pork chops or pork loin roast. Use any syrup leftover as part of the glaze for baked ham.

Ground Meat Storage

Ground beef does not keep as well as other meat cuts like steaks and chops, so plan to use within 24 hours after purchasing. While in the refrigerator, let it stand, loosely wrapped, in the coldest section.

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon bottled browningsauce

Cook carrots in boiling water until just tender. Drain mushrooms, crowns and pineapple chunks, reserving liquid.

On each of 5 grill skewers, arrange alternately mushrooms, carrots, ham and pineapple.

Combine broth from mushrooms and pineapple juice and remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and clears. Add any extra mushroom crowns and pineapple chunks to sauce.

On a rotary electric grill, broil kabobs about 15 minutes. Brush now and then with sauce. Serve kabobs with remaining sauce.

Under an indoor broiling unit or over charcoal grills, broil kabobs about 3 inches from moderate heat, allowing about 15 minutes. Turn now and then, brush with sauce occasionally.

INDOOR rotisserie turns out these tempting ham kabobs.
The urge to do a little "outdoor" cooking indoors hits many of us at times.

Fortunately, recommended broiler-rotisseries now in the market make this possible. They do not need hoods to shield the walls from smoke and they do not spatter.

Kabobs, of course, are ideal for this type of indoor "outdoor" cooking. Here's a new recipe using cubes of ham. Try it for your next "cook-in."

Sunny Ham Kabobs
(4 to 6 servings)

3 to 4 carrots, cut in 1-inch rounds
1 can (6 oz.) broiled mushroom crowns
1 can (13 1/2 oz.) pineapple chunks
1 1/2 lb. cooked ham, cut in 1 1/2-inch cubes
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon brown sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

New Date Coffee Cake

This tender, light hot bread, ever so moist with mellow California date morsels, is a breeze to make with biscuit mix — good news indeed for homemakers with so many other chores to attend to during the holiday rush.

As an extra-added touch of hospitality, give your friends the pleasure of sampling fresh dates stuffed with whole blanched almonds. Buy pitted California dates if you like or simply snip alone one side of unpitted dates with kitchen scissors and flip out the pits.

Date Coffee Cake

1 cup California dates
1 1/4 cups biscuit mix
1/4 cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons shortening

1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
3 tablespoons softened butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Pit and slice dates. Combine 1 1/2 cups biscuit mix, granulated sugar and shortening. Add egg and 1/2 cup milk; beat 1 minute on low speed of mixer or 150 strokes by hand. Add remaining milk and vanilla; beat 1 minute longer. Stir in dates. Turn into greased and floured 9-inch layer cake pan. Blend remaining biscuit mix, brown sugar, butter and cinnamon to crumb-like consistency; sprinkle over batter. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 to 35 minutes, until cake tests done. Cool in pan on wire rack. Makes 1 (9-inch) cake.

COOK'S TOUR

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—Memo to luggage manufacturers: Never mind about a suitcase that fits beneath an airplane seat. Design me an individual-size, attractive, easily portable, insulated carrier for liquid diet drink, fresh fruit and other emergency food supplies for use aboard trains whose dining car standards have slipped.

On a recent vacation I logged more than 3,600 miles aboard three of the United States' crack trains and ate what may well have been the best and the worst that our railroads currently serve.

The worst that I tasted was overcooked, over-priced, barely warm and sometimes greasy. The best meals were consistently delicious and reasonably priced.

Indigestible
A $3.50 steak dinner in one streamliner's economy dining car consisted of hot consommé in a cup so full that much of the soup was in the saucer when it reached my table; a small, not very tender steak that tasted as if it had been fried in leftover grease; overdone pan-fried potatoes; and butterscotch pudding so solid it might have been thickened with breadcrumbs.

A $2 breakfast in the same economy diner consisted of a small glass of orange juice — not the freshly-squeezed kind, a smallish, lukewarm slice of ham that looked and tasted as if the grill needed cleaning; and a pot of poor coffee containing a scant 1 1/2 cups.

The dinner I ordered in the same train's first class dining car was little better. The shellfish in the shrimp cocktail were tough from overcooking. The slice of roast beef was skimpy and tepid; the potatoes were grayish, overcooked and lukewarm.

Tough Pie Crust
Salad consisted of unwieldy chunks of iceberg lettuce, a few slices of tomato and cucumber, a few chunks of cheese (I think it was blue), all awash with orange-colored bottled dressing. The cherry pie crust was tough. The wine, a French bordeaux, was good but served in glasses so small that the wine appeared to have little or no bouquet.

On the credit side: roast beef dinner aboard another train began with shrimp cocktail, the shellfish moist and tender and served with a spicy sauce. An ample slice of rare roast beef arrived hot on a hot plate. The cauliflower polonaise was the classic dish — boiled fresh hot cauliflower topped with buttered crumbs.

My wine choice was a split (2 glasses) of an excellent California dry semillon, which was served in a glass large enough to allow the bouquet to develop and enhance the flavor.

The chef's combination salad contained mixed greens with flavorful oil and vinegar dressing. The cherry pie crust was flaky and the coffee, delicious.

Excellent Service
A second pot of coffee was served without asking — thanks to the attentiveness of the waiter who saw four passengers deep in conversation.

Three more meals aboard the same train were notable: breakfast included scrambled eggs with diced ham and chopped fresh chives. Lunch included combination salad bowl with shrimp, four kinds of crisp, dry lettuce (romaine, chicory, wa-

You'll find your grapefruit knife with its serrated edge is a handy tool for hollowing out tomatoes that are to be stuffed for salad or baking.

Allegany To Vie In Ten Track Meets And Fort Hill In Nine

Sentinels May Enter Alexandria Relays April 3

Campers List Five Dual Meets; Elect Sell And Harris

Allegany High School will compete in ten meets and Fort Hill High School hopes to participate in nine during the 1965 track and field season.

Schedules were announced yesterday by Coach Ed Schwarz, of the Campers, and Paul Flick, of the Sentinels.

Fort Hill has received an invitation from George Washington High School to the 17th annual Alexandria Memorial Relays to be held April 3 at Alexandria, Va., and Coach Flick will know this weekend whether his team can accept.

Martinsburg Meet Grows

The Sentinels will vie in the Handley meet at Winchester, the Martinsburg High Invitational, which has grown to an eight-school meet and will begin at 6 p. m., April 17, the Belleaire (Ohio) Relays for the fifth time, the CVAL, county, a dual affair at Altoona High School at 4 p. m. May 12, the district Class A meet at Frederick and the state Class A meet at Overlea.

Flick, at the helm for the fifth year, stated that 60 reported for track at Fort Hill and the squad has been engaging in drills for two weeks.

Lists 5 Dual Meets

Coach Schwarz has scheduled dual meets with Valley, Hampshire, Keyser, Bruce and Beall and the Campers also will compete in the CVAL meet at Frederick, the County meet at Fort Hill, the Beall Invitational on the night of May 11, the district AA meet at Frederick and the state AA tests at Overlea.

Second team members in the front row are: Frank Scarpelli, St. Michael's; Regis Mattingly, SS. Peter & Paul; Paul Skelley, St. Ambrose, and Mike Carter, Mt. Savage St. Patrick's. Due to a tie for fifth place between Hardy and Perlozzo only four players make up the second team.

Fred Newman Blanks Red Sox

In addition to losing the game, the Red Sox' new pitching acquisition, Dennis Bennett, had to leave in the fourth when he re-injured a sore shoulder that has been troubling him all spring.

The Angels got their only run in the fourth when Jim Fregosi doubled and Lou Clinton, formerly of the Red Sox, tripled.

Newman struck out five batters and walked only two. He has allowed only one earned run in 15 innings.

Twins Coach Doesn't Think He Is Ready

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Orlando, Fla. (AP) — The quickest way to irritate Billy Martin is to ask him if it is true he is being groomed by the front office to succeed Sam Mele as manager of the Minnesota Twins should the club continue to falter this year.

"I'm in no hurry to become a manager," growled the former New York Yankee sparkplug who last October was one of the three new coaches hired in an attempt to spark the Twins.

"I'm still a young guy. I can wait. I don't think I'm ready to manage. I've got lots to learn. I'm trying to be a good coach and help Sam all I can. That's foremost in my mind right now."

Battling Billy is fully aware of the sensitive position in which he has been placed by club owner Calvin Griffith, after serving three years as supervisor of Midwest scouts for the Minnesota organization.

Martin said his ultimate ambition is to become general manager of a major league club.

"Does that mean that Mr. Griffith had better look out?" he asked.

Martin said his chief concern about this talk was the effect it might have on Mele.

Yankees Reduce Roster To 33

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Yankees trimmed their training camp roster to 33 men Tuesday when they sent 11 players to their minor league camp in Hollywood, Fla., pending assignment to specific clubs for the 1965 season.

Those sent out were pitchers Gil Downs, Tom Metcalf, Jim Smith, Paul Toth and Andy Vickery, catchers Eliseo Rodriguez, Chel Trail and Bobby Murcer, and outfielders Elvio Jimenez, Archie Moore and Roger Repoz.

Bob Schmidt, former catcher with the Giants and Senators who now is on the roster of the Toledo Mud Hens, was brought into camp to help with the catching chores.

HAITIAN JET—The New York Jets have added a soccer-style place kicker who boots 'em 50 yards to their roster. He is Max St. Victor of Haiti, who stands 6 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds. He will be trying to displace Jim Turner, who led the Jets in scoring last year, as the place kicker.

Gilliams Beat Ozarks

Fountain Of Youth Stakes Attracts 14

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI) — A field of 14 was entered for Wednesday's 19th running of the $15,000 added Fountain Of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream Park, the final major prep for the $100,000 added Florida Derby.

Missing from the field was Native Charger, winner of the $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes. But the four horses closest to Native Charger in the Flamingo were named for the mile and one-sixteenth race: Sparkling Johnny, Hail To All, Flyalong and Selari.

Almost all the 14 horses in the Fountain Of Youth are eligible for the Florida Derby. But one who is not is Gallant Lad, recent winner of the Hutcheson Stakes.

Aqueduct Feature To Dependability

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hobeau Farm's Dependability, surprise winner of the Swift Stakes on opening day, came back with a half-length victory Tuesday in the $10,000 Revoked Purse at Aqueduct.

With Eddie Belmonte again in the saddle, Dependability went to the front a little sooner this time and then turned back a bid by Ogden Phipps' Dapper Dan in the closing yards of the six-furlong race. The son of Stymlie took command shortly after entering the stretch.

I'm Nashville was third in the field of six 3-year-olds.

Tribe Wins, 10-3

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians' four-run burst in the fifth inning put the Tribe in front to stay in a 10-3 exhibition victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday.

Nugget Wins Three

The Golden Nugget swept three games from Pocatontos last night in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League. Erma Holtzman led the winners with 20 points and Lula Taylor's 12 was high for Pocatontos.

Jim Schrader Guest Speaker At ACIT Tipoff Dinner Tonight

Noire Dame Grad Played Nine Years In Pro Grid League

The Alhambra Catholic Invitational Tournament tipoff dinner will be held tonight at 6:30 in St. Mary's parish hall with former National Football League player

Jim Schrader slated to be guest speaker. Schrader played his college ball at Notre Dame, where he received All-American notice at center in his senior year. A nine-year veteran in the NFL, Jim entered the pro circuit as the second draft choice of the Washington Redskins.

After his rookie year with the Redskins, he saw Army service in 1955-56. Starting in 1967, he played 48 consecutive NFL contests. He was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles in 1962 and wound up his playing days in 1964.

Sales Representative

Schrader is now a sales representative for Standard Lime and Cement Company. The company is paying his expenses for this speaking engagement.

Joe Divico, general ACIT chairman, said the dinner, although in honor of the eight teams participating in the basketball tournament beginning Thursday at Allegany gym, is open to the public. Tickets for the dinner, as well as advance ducats for the games, may be secured at the usual business establishments or at the door.

Dr. Leo H. Ley, local M. D. and long-time team physician for the host-team LaSalle Explorers, will be the toastmaster for the tipoff

$1,000 Worth Of Trophies

ACIT games will be played tomorrow, Friday and Saturday (four each day), with over $1,000 in trophies up for grabs. Tomorrow's schedule opens at 5 p. m. with host LaSalle and Seton Hall of Long Island meeting in Thursday's 9:30 finale.

Teams are expected to arrive in Cumberland around 3 p. m. today. They will stay at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Luncheons are scheduled for the players and coaches during the three days of journey action.

Musical entertainment is planned for Friday night's games. Also, the Allegany Arrowettes will present a 15-minute show Friday night.

Alhambra Tourney Em Flynn Passes On Steve's 1,977 High Palumbo's Bad Days

By C. V. BURNS

SEVENTEEN different schools from four states and the District of Columbia have participated in the four Alhambra Catholic Invitational Tournaments held here. Four of the eight teams in the tourney which gets under way tomorrow are newcomers, namely, Cathedral, of Scranton, Pa.; St. Francis De Sales, McKees Rocks, Pa.; St. Mary's, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; and Seton Hall, Long Island, N. Y.

Towson, the 1962 champion, and LaSalle, the host school, are in the tourney for the fifth straight year. St. George, Pittsburgh, the initial winner in 1961 when the event was staged on St. Peter & Paul court and wound up on Sunday, and St. Canice, Pittsburgh, the 1963 and 1964 champion, and only undefeated school in the tourney's 4-year history (6-0), will be competing for the fourth time.

Here are the won and lost records of the schools since the annual tournaments began:

Team	Yrs.	W.	L.
St. Canice, Pittsburgh	2	6	0
St. George, Pittsburgh	2	7	0
Towson, Md.	4	9	3
Prior, Washington	1	2	1
St. John, Uniontown, Pa.	1	2	1
York, Pa.	1	2	1
Benedictine, Richmond, Va.	1	2	1
St. Canice, Pittsburgh	3	4	3
LaSalle, Cumberland	4	1	2
LaSalle, Shamokin, Pa.	1	1	2
Salem, New Rochelle, N.Y.	1	1	2
St. Joseph, Natrona, Pa.	2	2	4
St. Mary, Harrisburg, Pa.	2	2	4
St. Anthony, Washington, D.C.	2	2	4
St. Mary, Annapolis	1	0	2
St. John, Westminster, Md.	1	0	2
Loyola, New York City	1	0	2

THE MOST POINTS ever scored by a team in the Alhambra tournament came in the opening round of the 1961 games when LaSalle's Explorers clobbered St. Maria Goretti, 95-59.

LaSalle's Joe Nolan scored 103 points in three games in 1963.

Last year, Harry Perry, of St. Canice, set single game records of 16 field goals and 40 points.

Ed Lawry, of St. George, won the MVP awards in 1961 and 1962. Ray Pilarski, of St. Canice, was the 1963 winner and Mike Keesey, of York, earned the honors a year ago.

WHEN Steve Vandenberg completed his high school basketball career with 1,977 points in 75 games it represented the greatest number of points ever scored by an Allegheny county schoolboy over three seasons.

Last year Bobby Robertson of Mt. Savage set a four-year high of 2,007 points in 92 games. Bobby's total for his last three years was 1,738, following a freshman season during which he tallied 260 points. He scored 656 in 1964, 612 in 1963 and 470 in 1962.

Vandy scored 637 points this year, 739 in 1964 and 581 in 1963. That 739 is an all-time high for a county player.

Year	G.	FG.	F.	Total
1965	21	226	103-152	555
1964	21	221	122-174	564
1963	21	198	134-197	530
TOTALS	63	645	359-523	1,649

Year	G.	FG.	F.	Total
1965	21	226	103-152	555
1964	21	221	122-174	564
1963	21	198	134-197	530
TOTALS	63	645	359-523	1,649

THE TRI-STATE area records Bill Maphis set at Romney High School from 1957 through 1960 still stand. He scored 2,504 points in 92 games over four seasons. His three-year high was 2,082 and his 831 in one season is still in outer space.

ALL of the major league teams open the season on Monday, April 12 but Chicago and Baltimore. The Chicago and Orioles kick off the lid Tuesday, April 13 in Baltimore.

Openers April 12 are:
National League — Philadelphia at Houston, Milwaukee at Cincinnati, St. Louis at Chicago, Los Angeles at New York and San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

American League — Detroit at Kansas City, Cleveland at Los Angeles, New York at Minnesota and Boston at Washington.

White Sox Victim Of Two-Hit Effort

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Bobby Locker pitched two-hit, no-run baseball for Chicago Tuesday, pacing the White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Locker worked five innings and extended his consecutive shutout frames to seven. The only Minnesota run came on singles by Hilarlo Valdespino, Tony Oliva and Joe Niese.

Barred Boxer Is Loser Under Assumed Name

Phil Meyer Fought As Bill Bailey

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Former middleweight fighter Phil Meyer, suspended permanently in 1962 because of an eye injury, tried to make a comeback at Boise, Idaho, March 4 under an assumed name, the Eugene Register-Guard said Tuesday.

A fighter using the name Bill Bailey lost a six-round decision at Boise to Jimmy Evans of Carson City, Nev. Bailey actually was Meyer, the newspaper said in an article by its sports news editor, Jerry Uhrhammer. It said this came to light when William Herron, who used to fight out of Tacoma, Wash., as Bill Bailey, called to protest that a news story listing him as loser in the Boise fight was in error. He said he had not been there although he had been asked by a local promoter, John Gabel, to sign for the fight.

Uhrhammer said that Ray Giffin, sports editor of the Boise Statesman, identified a photograph of Meyer as that of the man who fought and lost to Evans.

At one time Meyer, now 26, was well regarded although his brother Dennis was a more highly ranked fighter. He was quoted as explaining his fight under an assumed name: "I love boxing. I've been trying to get back for two years. I saw a ray of hope and I took it."

Ivy Presidents Ban Bradley

Bill Can't Play In All-Star Game

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Ivy League will not permit Player of the Year Bill Bradley to participate in an East-West College All-Star basketball game Saturday at Lexington, Ky.

Princeton University Athletic Director R. Kenneth Fairman said Tuesday the Ivy League presidents had refused to waive a rule against participation in all-star games, except as part of a tryout for a national team.

Bradley played in last year's game, which was part of the pre-Olympic competition.

Braves Shellack Pittsburgh, 12-10

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh 12-10 Tuesday, scoring 10 runs in two innings against Bob Friend.

There were six home runs hit in the game. Joe Torre had two and had five runs batted in for the Braves and Mack Jones hit another and drove in three runs.

Palumbo had much success with a horse named Royal Business. This bangtail still holds the Fairgo 6 1/4 furlongs record of 1:20 2/5 set August 9, 1941.

Baseball's Future Book

Cincinnati's Tommy Helms

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla. — "I know it will be hard to break into this club's lineup but I want to be around here to help out." So says young Tommy Vann Helms, a classy-looking shortstop who came up through the Cincinnati Reds' farm system and may be ready right now.

Manager Dick Sisler likes the 23-year-old North Carolinian, whose mother is part Cherokee Indian, and so did manager Dave Bristol at San Diego last year where Tommy hit .309 to tie for the Padres' batting lead and was the All-Star shortstop in the Pacific Coast League.

Tommy, described by Sisler "as a good little hitter, one who knows how to hit and knows how to get the ball away quickly in the field," has been in the Reds' chain for six years, starting with Palatka in 1961.

Helms has always done a fine job and this winter, playing in Venezuela, he batted .386. He missed spring training last year because of a Marine stint, but is hard at work here trying to make the club either as a fill-in for Leo Cardenas at short or as the second baseman.

Baseball has been a part of Tommy's family, for his older brother Larry was in the Cincinnati chain and once hit 32 homers one season while playing with Wenatchee, Wash. His father, Clyde D. Helms, a foreman in a textile mill in Charlotte, was the manager of the mill team and once had Whitey Lockman and Pete Whisenant on his club.

Tommy went to Mecklenburg High in Charlotte and was some shakes as a football player, although he was on the smallish side. He scored five touchdowns in his first five games as a senior until he broke his collar bone. In baseball he hit .510 in his senior year.

The Reds signed Tommy in 1961 after he graduated from high school, giving him a $6,000 bonus. He almost signed with the Cleveland Indians, but they considered him too small for he weighed only 146 pounds and stood only 5 feet 7 inches. He is now up to 5 feet 10 inches and weighs 165.

Yanks Lose, 6-5; Mantle And Tresh To Be Given Rest

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Burt Campaneris' three-run homer with two out in the 13th inning gave the Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday.

Campaneris' smash, a towering shot over the leftfield fence, snapped a 3-3 tie and came at the expense of Bill Stafford, the fifth pitcher to be used by the home club in the extra-inning marathon.

After the game, manager Johnny Keane announced Mickey Mantle and Tom Tresh, both suffering from minor charley horses, would rest Wednesday and Thursday.

Royals, 76ers Clash Tonight

Wilt, Big O Ailing For Playoff Opener

CINCINNATI (AP) — Oscar Robertson and Wilt Chamberlain are ailing but expect to play Wednesday night when the Cincinnati Royals and the Philadelphia 76ers open their best-of-five series in the National Basketball Association Eastern Division playoffs.

Robertson of the Royals has a pulled tendon in his left foot. Chamberlain of the 76ers is troubled with a pancreas disorder and was hospitalized.

What those two players mean to each team can be seen from these statistics:

Chamberlain, as usual led the league in scoring during the regular season with 2,534 points for a 34.7 average. Robertson was third with 2,279 points for a 30.4 average and led in assists with an average of 11.5.

The winner of the first round will go against the division champion Boston Celtics for the right to meet the Western Division playoff kings.

The second game of the Cincinnati-Philadelphia series will be played at Philadelphia Friday, with the third game here Sunday afternoon. A fourth game, if needed, will be played at Philadelphia March 31 and the fifth, if necessary, will be here April 2.

Kelso To Open Tour At Laurel

Proceeds Will Go For Equine Research

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Kelso, world's leading money winning horse and five times horse of year, arrived at Laurel Race Course Tuesday to begin a nationwide "personal" appearance tour.

Mrs. Richard C. DuPont's 8-year-old gelding made the 14-hour trip by van from his winter quarters in Aiken, S. C., with Ralph Via, exercise boy, and Lawrence Fitzpatrick, Kelso's groom since the Bohemia Stable star set out on the championship trail in 1960.

Mrs. DuPont is interested in equine research and proceeds from the tour will go to the New Bolton Center at the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School for that purpose.

Kelso, bright eyed and ears erect, kept looking toward the race track as horses galloped past during their workouts.

"He thinks he's getting ready for a race," said Via, who will gallop Kelso around the track once a day Wednesday through Sunday. The Sunday appearance will be part of a family day program, the others after the second race of the daily racing program.

Retired jockey Eddie Arcaro, Kelso's first regular rider; trainer Carl Hanford, and John D. Schapiro, Laurel president, will join Mrs. DuPont for an opening ceremony Wednesday.

Kelso defeated seven rivals in the Washington, D. C. International at Laurel last Nov. 11.

Sunday night, Kelso will be taken to Mrs. DuPont's Chesapeake City, Md. farm before resuming the tour.

Unfavorable Report Given Racing Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Ten additional nights apiece for Maryland's three harness race tracks received an unfavorable report Tuesday in the Senate Finance Committee.

"I'm going to let the bill die in committee," said Sen. John L. Sanford, D-Worcester. "I was not consulted and didn't even know it was being introduced."

Reds A Contender With Fine Pitching, Good Defense

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams. Others will follow on this page daily.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla. — With probably the best pitching staff in all baseball — there are nine hurlers here who started last year — the Cincinnati Reds once again present a formidable threat to what could be another torrid National League race.

The Reds came on last year at the finish, with Dick Sisler handling the reins for the late Fred Hutchinson, and finished just one game out.

That, and the solid pitching, excites Dick as much as anything.

Quality In Pitching

"We have depth and quality in our pitching," says the very affable Dick, who went through a bad winter when his house in Nashville was hit by fire Jan. 16, doing $18,000 damage, "and we finished strong last year and this helped our players immensely. I think they matured a lot through that and it added to their pride and desire."

The starters are Jim Maloney, Jim O'Toole, Joey Jay and Joe Nuxhall but others also have been starters here. Sammy Ellis, who has been in relief, now wants to change over and he could break in.

Additionally, there are John Tsitouris, Gerry Arrigo, who was procured in a trade with the Minnesota Twins; Bill McCool, who did such a fine job last year and Roger Craig from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Some fine young arms are in camp, belonging to Ted Davidson, a left-hander from San Diego; Dan Neville, a right-hander who was 14-11 with San Diego and Larry Dovel, also up from San Diego. Old Ted Willis, who's been around bullpens with many clubs and Ryne Duren are relievers.

Sisler looks for Davidson to give him relief help along with any of the starters who may be available and Bill Henry, who got in 37 games last year.

Need More Runs

"Our key problem," said Dick as we sat in the dugout here, "is to score more runs without hurting our defense. We were the best defensive club in the National League last year but many times we couldn't score that run when we needed it."

"I'm sure Vada Pinson won't have that bad a year again. Frank Robinson didn't play up to his ability. Pinson had leg trouble but we didn't publicize it for fear the other clubs would take advantage of it. Many people thought he wasn't putting out."

To add some punch, Sisler plans to give Deron Johnson, who can play three positions and who hit 21 homers last year a real shot at third. And Gordy Coleman a chance to make it at first.

A budding young shortstop star, Tommy Helms, up from San Diego where he hit .309, could break in at second to go with the rifle-armed Leo Cardenas at short. Pete Rose, the second baseman, could move to third if Johnson doesn't make it. Also on hand is Chico Ruiz, who also came up from San Diego.

May Up From Macon
Lee May, listed as a first baseman and an outfielder, batted a neat .303 and hit 25 home runs for Macon last year.

The outfield is two-thirds solid with the stars, Pinson and Robinson, and the third spot may go to Charlie James, former Cardinal outfielder.

HIGH SCORE FOR 25th WEEK: Berne Palmer, Fisher & Robinson, 27.
HIGH SCORES FOR SEASON: Louise Scherch, Purple Heart Club, 39; Lois Wilson, Pocatolas, 39.

Tommy Harper, Jackie Keough, Mel Queen and Art Shamsky. Keough is versatile and a good man to have around. Queen was with the Reds last year and Shamsky hit 25 homers for San Diego.

Johnny Edwards is the catcher and Sisler hopes to get 135 games out of him. On hand for the other spots are Jim Coker, who came up from Denver last year, and Don Pavletich, who hit .302 for San Diego.

"I certainly think we have a contender but we have to continue with good pitching," was Sisler's parting shot.

NEXT—The New York Mets.

Participants Fined For NHL Skirmish

MONTREAL (AP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, levied fines Tuesday totalling $1,075 against members of the Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings who left player benches to take part in a brief fight during a March 13 game at the Forum.

Montreal right winger Claude Larose, one of the first off the bench and a main participant in the skirmish, was fined $125.

Nine other Canadiens and 10 Red Wings were fined $50 each.

The Donnybrook came in the final seconds of a game won by Montreal.

Birds Are Beaten By Jack Fisher

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Rookie outfielder Danny Napoleon drove in three runs on two singles in leading the New York Mets to a 5-2 exhibition baseball victory over the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday.

The Mets scored twice in the first as a sacrifice fly by Johnny Lewis and Napoleon's single followed a single by Ed Kranepool and a double by Jim Hickman. They added three more in the fifth when Lewis walked with the bases loaded, forcing in one run, and Napoleon followed with his second single.

Napoleon also made a sensational catch of Dave Johnson's line drive with two runners aboard in the Baltimore second.

Jack Fisher was the winning pitcher. He yielded eight hits, walked none and struck out four in the first six innings. Jerry Hunsley finished, holding the Orioles hitless and giving up one base on ball.

Reed Is Named Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Willis Reed, scoring and rebounding star of the New York Knickerbockers, was named Rookie of the Year in the National Basketball Association Tuesday.

Reed, 6-foot-10 alumnus of Grambling, La., College, out-polluted Lucious Jackson of Philadelphia 47-27 in the annual ballot of 79 writers and broadcasters. A cash award of $200 goes with the honor.

Reed tallied 1,560 points for a 19.5 per game average and grabbed 1,175 rebounds — a per-game mark of 14.7.

Phils' Bobby Wine Aggravates Injury, Clears Complete Rest

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Wine, Philadelphia Phillies shortstop, was admitted to the Morton Plant Hospital here Tuesday for treatment of a back injury.

The injury dates back to last August when Wine was hurt in a game with the Cubs at Chicago. In last Saturday's exhibition game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Wine suffered an aggravation of the injury.

It was decided that Wine needed a complete bed rest for an indefinite period.

Sanders Is Leading PGA Money Winner

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Doug Sanders has an $11,176 cushion under him Tuesday in first place among top money winners of tournament sponsored by the Professional Golfers Association.

Sanders was credited with $29,157 and runner-up Bob Charles $17,981 from 1965 PGA tournaments through last week-end's Jacksonville Open.

Delbert 'Deb' Payton
Elected Chairman

Two new teams will be competing in the City Softball League this year, and at least five of last year's six crews will be back in business.

Returning are last year's regular-season and playoff champion Queen City Electric, Old Champions, Old Exports, Krampf's Bershop, and Pepsi-Cola. Representatives from these five returning teams attended the league's first organizational meeting Monday at the Redmen home on Baltimore Street.

In addition, Singer Sewing Machine and a team from Pinto were on hand. Earl Nonnemans's Sports Shoppe team was not represented at this meeting, but may yet join the circuit.

Election of officers took place at Monday's meeting. Selected were Delbert "Deb" Payton, chairman; Joe Kelley, secretary; and Bill Blake, treasurer. A players' committee was formed. One representative from each team will serve on this committee.

Deadline for entrance fees will be Monday, April 5, at a 7:30 p. m. meeting slated for the Baltimore Street Redmen home. The meeting will be of a general business nature, with by-law changes being voted on.

The Tri-State Umpire Association, with Al Martin umpire-in-chief for the City Softball League, will handle league games this year.

Ferraris Will Not Vie At Sebring

MODENA, Italy (UPI) — The Ferrari auto company said Monday night it will definitely not compete in the Sebring, Fla., 12-hour race this week-end.

The company said its earlier decision not to compete still stood. It accused the organizers of the Sebring race of failing to live up to earlier agreements, but did not specify what those agreements were.

"For the same reasons, Maranello Ltd. and the North American racing teams (which use Ferraris) have decided not to enter their cars," the announcement said.

Basketball Coaches Get Broad Leeway To Talk To Officials

CHICAGO (AP) — Basketball coaches were granted broad leeway to confer with floor officials during a game by the National Basketball Rules Committee of the United States and Canada Tuesday.

Cliff Fagan of Chicago, committee secretary, said at the end of two-day meeting Tuesday that permissive action was adopted "whereby a coach may confer with floor officials for the purpose of preventing or correcting specified errors."

"This means," he said, "that a coach can get off the bench when the clock is stopped or the ball is dead and go to a conference with the officials. If the coach is right in his contention of preventing or correcting a specified error, no time out will be charged against his team. If he is wrong, it will be."

Hawks Open Series With Baltimore

Winning Team
To Play Lakers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks, healthy for the first time since early in the season, will take a well balanced attack into the National Basketball Association playoffs beginning Wednesday night.

The Hawks, who finished second in the Western Division, host the third-place Baltimore Bullets in the first of a best-of-five series.

The second game will be played Friday in St. Louis; the third and fourth, if necessary, in Baltimore Saturday and next Tuesday, and the fifth, if needed, in St. Louis a week from Thursday.

Winner Plays Lakers

The winner meets the Los Angeles Lakers, who won the division, in a best-of-seven set.

Only rookie Jeff Mullins is a doubtful performer Wednesday for the Hawks. All-Star guard Len Wilkens will be back. Retiring All-Pro Bob Pettit and Mike Farmer returned last week after being injured.

Player-coach Richie Guerin, Chico Vaughn and John Barnhill also returned to the line-up recently.

Because of the injuries that struck most of the squad during the season, Guerin has had to produce makeshift line-ups and the result has been seven Hawks averaging in double figures.

Pettit, as usual, tops the list with a 21.2 average per game. Zelmo Beaty is 16.9, Wilkens 16.3, Guerin 14.4, Cliff Hagan 13.0, Vaughn 11.6 and Bill Bridges 11.5.

The Bullets rely for the most part on their starting five of Walt Bellamy, Bailey Howell, Gus Johnson, Don Ohl and Kevin Loughery.

Bellamy Leads With 24.6

Bellamy leads the group with a 24.6 average. Howell is 19.5, Johnson 19.0, Ohl 18.7 and Loughery 12.8.

Houston Trims Senators, 7-5

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Astros pounded out four home runs among 14 hits Tuesday as they extended their exhibition baseball game winning streak to five with a 7-5 victory over the Washington Senators.

Walt Bond, Rusty Staub, John Bateman and Jim Beauchamp hit the homers. Pinch hitter Roy Sievers and Don Lock homered for the Senators.

The Astros got two homers off Alan Koch and one each off Bennie Daniels and Carlos Medrano.

Bill Meek To Scout For Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have signed Bill Meek, former University of Houston and Southern Methodist football coach, as a scout for the National Football League team.

Frostburg Area Youths Held In Vandalism

To Be Questioned In School Damage

Four youths of the Frostburg area were arrested by authorities of that community yesterday afternoon in connection with the breaking and entering of Beall Elementary School, malicious destruction of school property, the entry of three churches, and the theft of three automobiles and an eight-gallon keg of beer.

Assistant Chief Leslie Bevan of the Frostburg Police Department said a 19-year-old Frostburg youth and three youths under 18 who reside in Frostburg, Midlothian and Eckhart were apprehended.

They will be taken to the State's Attorney's office this morning for further questioning.

The breaking and entering of the school was discovered at 5:50 a. m. yesterday when Charles Miller, a custodian, reported for work.

Flags Are Ripped
The intruders ripped down two flags, damaged a television set, stole a radio which was later recovered on a Frostburg street, tossed perishable foods throughout the building, smeared paint in rooms, and upset desks.

They entered the building after breaking out a basement window and then smashed a heavy plate glass door to enter the school's gym and auditorium, where an American flag and a Maryland flag were torn down and ripped to pieces.

The school's art room was reported "one big mess" where the intruders splashed paint over the floor, blackboards and desks.

During the wild spree the intruders ripped down window blinds, upset desks, ransacked cabinets and teachers' desks and wrote obscene messages on the black boards, authorities said.

15 Are Questioned
In the investigation yesterday Frostburg police, with an assist from Cpl. William G. Hart, criminal investigator for state police, questioned at least 15 youths and with various information apprehended the four youths.

The four were reported to have taken an eight-gallon keg of beer from a Frostburg establishment.

Aside from entering the school and causing the malicious destruction of property the four youths were reported to have entered St. Michael's Catholic Church, St. John's Episcopal Church, Broadway, and Salem Reformed Church in Frostburg, apparently in search of money.

Future Of ABL Meeting Slated In Washington

The future of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will be discussed on Monday afternoon in Washington during a meeting in the office of Irving Silver, missile propellant division of the Navy Department.

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias, Republican of Maryland's Sixth Congressional District, is expected to attend the meeting at 2 p. m. along with officials of the Hercules Powder Company, ABL, and the Navy Department.

Last week Rep. Mathias sent telegrams to Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze and Henry A. Thouron, president of Hercules Powder Company in quest of the meeting.

House OKs Bill Hiking Court Costs

Plan Would Apply In Traffic Cases

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A bill designed to bolster Maryland's Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund by increasing court costs in certain traffic cases was approved by the House Tuesday and sent to the Senate.

The vote was 82-21 on the measure sponsored by Del. James H. Caldwell, D-Wicomico, and Alan Resnick, D-Balto 5th. Caldwell is chairman and Resnick is a member of the Banking and Insurance Committee.

The bill would impose a $5 mandatory court cost on any driver convicted of traffic law violations involving a moving vehicle.

Backers of the bill estimate it would add about $1.2 million to the fund during the one year of its effectiveness, beginning June 1. The fund is used to protect victims of motorists who do not have valid liability insurance, and its officials say it needs a financial shot in the arm.

Water Pressure Rises Dramatically

Water Department crews recently tied in two streets to the new high pressure line running from the McNamee Hill water tank and the Naval Armory, causing a dramatic rise in water pressure.

Tests showed that pressure on Leiper Street increased from seven to 80 pounds and on Princeton Street from eight to 84 pounds.

Connections will be made later this year to lines on Yale, Frost, Cole streets and in the Shades Lane section. Homes there will probably have to install pressure regulators, at their own expense, as the pressures in that area may go to from 112 to 120 pounds.

LaSalle Class Plans Reunion

The 1950 graduating class of LaSalle High School will meet tonight at 9 o'clock at Cas Taylor's Restaurant to plan for their 15th reunion on August 14 at the Clary Club.

Tentative plans are to hold a dance that evening which would be open to all graduates of the local school. Proceeds would be turned over to the new Bishop Walsh High School fund.

Interim Body Will Study Drilling Rules

Oil And Gas Wells Would Be Involved

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A bill to set up new regulations for drilling oil and gas wells in Maryland was referred to the Legislative Council for further study Tuesday by a House committee.

The measure was introduced only a week ago and members of the Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee felt there had not been time for proper study.

John Avirett, a lawyer representing Cumberland-Allegany Gas Co., and Texas-Eastern Transmission Co., said his clients got printed copies of the bill only Saturday and would like more time to look it over.

The measure was prepared at the request of the Board of Public Works after the board learned at its March meeting of shortcomings in the present law.

The bill would provide primarily for spacing of wells and for sharing of revenues when one well draws from under the property of more than one landowner.

Avirett pointed out that the only oil and gas activity in the state is in the Accident field in Garrett County.

Oil and gas leases have been acquired on considerable land in the eastern end of Allegany County but apparently there have been no drilling. A number of these leases have been surrendered by the companies, New York State Natural Gas Company and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, particularly.

Fort Hill Seventh Graders Learn About Delinquency

By CHARLES H. KELLY News Staff Writer

A Fort Hill High School social studies teacher has spent many hours of research on juvenile delinquency in order to present a broader program of study to his students.

He is William R. Williams of LaVale, teacher of 185 seventh graders in five sections, who is concerned with his pupils making the most of their leisure time and how they can share their talents by helping others.

This month's social studies unit is teaching dwellers on juvenile delinquency and the instructor has been supplying the students with plenty of food for thought.

His feelings toward juvenile delinquency are in line with a report by J. Edgar Hoover, veteran director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who says that "a surging tide of lawlessness is sweeping the United States—one of unparalleled size and intensity."

President's Proposal
President Johnson, well aware of the report, has asked Congress to crack down on mail order sales of firearms, to impose tighter controls on some drugs and sedatives that are dangerous when misused, and to provide funds for increased federal action to root out organized crime.

Back in the Fort Hill classroom, Mr. Williams is stressing the pitfalls of juvenile delinquency which he feels should not only be of concern in the school but more so at home and in the community.

To name a few reasons for juvenile delinquency the teacher points out that it is due to public indifference, lack of church interest, limited recreational facilities, and effects of television.

Mr. Williams said that Jacob M. Braude, a judge for nearly 25 years in the Municipal Courts of Chicago and the Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill., explains juvenile delinquency as real live kids in trouble, in despair and mixed up.

They are kids who weren't brought into this world as delinquents but who got that way because of a number of factors beyond their control but not beyond the control of their elders.

Bill To Toughen Interest Law Clears Senate

Sen. George Hughes Defends Measure

By HERB THOMPSON ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Senate tentatively approved Tuesday a bill to toughen the penalty on lenders who charge in excess of the 6 percent interest permitted by the state usury law.

At present, such a violator has to forfeit only the amount of excess interest he has charged. Under the bill passed by the House and now bearing enactment in the Senate, the lender would have to forfeit all the interest he has charged, including the legitimate amount.

Sen. John W. Steffey, R-Anne Arundel, a builder and realtor, questioned the impact the law might have on "many legitimate businesses such as banks and savings and loan institutions."

Steffey said the question of usury has come up "time and again" in the legislature. He suggested that the matter be referred to the between-sessions Legislative Council for a study to develop "a clear and fair definition of usury" that would reflect changes in lending practices which have arisen since the original law was enacted.

Sen. George R. Hughes, R-Allegany, said Steffey was "apparently representing the mortgage lending industry."

"Any lender who is not now violating the usury law won't be affected by this bill," Hughes said.

He said the present penalty of having to refund only the excess amount after he is caught and prosecuted "is an open invitation to cheat."

"If a lender charges more than the law allows, he ought to have more than his little pinkie flicked," Hughes said.

Sen. Frederick C. Malkus Jr., D-Dorchester, chairman of the judiciary committee, observed that if more interest is needed by lending institutions the proper way to get it is to pass a law raising the present 6 percent legal limit and not try to defeat bills such as this.

Record Sales Reported By Paper Firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. Tuesday reported record sales and higher earnings for the first third of the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

President David L. Luke, told stockholders at the annual meeting that the company earned $4,730,000 or 90 cents a share, on record sales totaling $101 million in the fourth months ended Feb. 28. This compared with the $2,711,000, or 51 cents a share, on sales totaling $56.8 million in the similar year-ago period.

The company previously reported net income equal to 68 cents for the first quarter of fiscal 1965, compared with 38 cents for the initial period of fiscal 1964. This indicates net income of 22 cents per share for February of this year and 13 cents per share for February 1964.

Luke said earnings for the first third of this year, excluding a gain of 22 cents per share attributable to a change in the company's depreciation policy, show "a significant improvement of 33 per cent."

Luke said capital expenditures will go over the $30 million mark this year, compared with $23.7 million in 1964 and $20.3 million the year before.

Corner Tavern Victor

Corner Tavern scored a 3-0 decision over the Cumberland Owls Club last night in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League. Wealtha Lynch paced Corner Tavern with 32 tallies and Anna Welsh led the Owls with 16 points.

Two Attending State Session On Libraries

Two members of the Allegany County Board of Library Trustees will attend a Citizens' Conference on Libraries today at the University of Maryland's center of adult education at College Park.

Representing the library board are Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg, president, and John J. Rowan. "Our Libraries—A Key to Maryland's Progress," is the theme of the conference which will start at 8:30 a. m. and end in mid-afternoon. It is sponsored jointly by the Maryland Library Association and the State Department of Education.

Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, state superintendent of schools, will preside at the first general session starting at 9:30 a. m. At 11 a. m., the group will be divided for two panel discussions. One of the panelists will be John Zimmerman, librarian at Frostburg State College. "Are Our Libraries Equipped To Meet The Challenge?" will be the question for discussion by the two panels.

During the luncheon meeting at 12:15 p. m., the speakers will be Edwin Castagna, president of the American Library Association, and Mrs. Stella B. Werner, former president of the Montgomery County Council.

Some 350 citizens, state officials, librarians and educators were invited to the conference.

Secures Permit

Charles W. Thompson, 327 City View Terrace, secured a permit from the City of Cumberland to occupy quarters at 105 Henry Street as a gun shop, known as the Allegany Gun Shop.

HARRY M. RODGERS III

State Chairman Will Kickoff Cancer Crusade

Dinner Planned Here Next Tuesday

Harry M. Rodgers III, state crusade chairman, will be the speaker at the Allegany County Unit, American Cancer Society 1965 crusade kickoff dinner Tuesday at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The dutch-treat event for all crusade workers and volunteers, church groups and others who worked for the chapter during the year and the Junior and Senior Boards, will get under way at 6:30 p. m.

Mr. Rodgers, a native of Baltimore, is serving his first year as chairman for the state crusade although he has participated in other campaign drives for other agencies and charities.

Currently a partner in the Boone and Rodgers Insurance Company, Mr. Rodgers started in the insurance field as a special agent for Maryland Casualty Company. After service in the Marine Corps he opened his own insurance agency.

He is a graduate of Calvert High School, Baltimore, and received his bachelor of science degree from Loyola College in 1950. He is a vice president of Boyce and Company and Tidewater Insurance Company, Baltimore and a member of the Merchants and Advocates clubs there. Mr. Rodgers also serves on the board of the Advertising Club of Baltimore and is a past president of the Hibernian Club.

Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone, president of the senior board of Allegany County unit will introduce the guests. Robert G. Garner, also a member of the board and chairman of the dinner committee will serve as master of ceremonies.

Other speakers are Ronald J. Screen, crusade chairman for Allegany County; Mrs. Leonard McKay, who will talk as a cured cancer patient, and Bruce Jamieson, assistant director of the Maryland Division of the Cancer Society.

Rev. John F. Sammel, a member of the board, will give the invocation and benediction. Entertainment will be provided by the "Barbarettes," Cora Hardin, Patricia Campbell, Martha Robinette and Dorothy Street.

Board members serving on the program committee with Mr. Garner are Mrs. Florence Thompson and Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame.

Flintstone Pupils See Cancer Film

A Cancer Society film, "Is Smoking Worth It?" was shown to students of the seventh through 12th grades Monday at Flintstone High School.

Mrs. Jean Cloni, executive secretary of the Allegany County Unit, narrated the film shown at an assembly sponsored by the Future Nurses Club of the school. Martha Stickley, president of FNC, arranged the assembly with the assistance of the club advisor, Mrs. Charles Sigler.

Members of the Future Nurses will assist with the cancer crusade's house-to-house canvass April 23-30, and also will sponsor special projects for the fund campaign.

Redistricting Tried Again In State Senate

Carries Chamber By 25-4 Margin

By GEORGE BOWEN ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Senate in two swift votes Tuesday passed a plan for shaping eight congressional districts which are considered likely to stand population constitutionality tests.

This will be the third pass by the legislature at setting up new districts since Maryland became entitled to an eighth congressman in 1960. One was beaten down by the voters and the other held by a federal court to provide unfair representation. The additional congressman has been elected at-large.

The Senate, without debate, voted 25-4 for an arrangement arrived at after much juggling to get within the limits of a prospective federal ground rule.

15 Per Cent Range
The U.S. House last week called for no congressional district to contain 15 per cent more or fewer residents than the total population of the state divided by the number of congressmen. Maryland's average is 387,586.

Some reapportionment legal experts also have said they felt the federal courts would accept a 15 per cent variance.

The Senate solution to the jigsaw puzzle meets the standard, although barely in two districts. After bolstering the nine Eastern Shore counties with Harford and three Baltimore County wards the district had 329,826 residents in the 1960 census. That was only 622 more than the percentage minimum.

Baltimore County, which will elect a congressman of its own after giving up six wards to Eastern and Western Maryland, still had 443,331 in the district, only 2,393 shy of being too many.

Besides Baltimore County, the big gainers will be Prince Georges and Montgomery which also will have one congressman apiece. The biggest loser will be Baltimore City, reduced from three congressmen to two.

Four Negative Votes
The only negative voted were cast by Sens. Paul A. Dorf, D-Balto 5th, James V. Mach, D-Balto 2nd, James A. Pine, D-Balto County, and John-Clarence North, D-Talbot.

The Senate plan actually is a rewriting of one passed by the House, which now will be asked to either accept or reject it. Rejection probably would mean appointment of a joint conference committee. The House attempt included three districts which violated the 15 per cent variance principle.

While the Senate wasted no time once it got moving on congressional redistricting, it postponed for the fifth time any kind of a decision on reapportioning itself.

"We're getting a little hanky panky on this bill," protested Pine. "In all fairness to us from the large counties, give us a chance at least to express our views by voting."

"Let's dispose of it one way or another."

Previously, Sen. John L. Sanford, D-Worcester, moved to lay the bill on the table which would have killed it outright for this session in which only six more days remain. He lost 20-7, although some senators said they probably would vote against the bills later.
